Something fishy at Galiano

There was something fishy about Galiano on Saturday

For the fifth year in a row it was the Lions Club annual Sea food Smorgasbord. The evening started off with clam chowder and stayed with the fishes until Every local fish was represented, with the addition of a Hawaiian Paradise Fish which was offered by the Hawaiian cook, Sol Badagos, who also sang of Hawaii.

The Galiano Hall was filled to capacity and so were the diners. It was a plentiful smorgasbord prepared by George Georgeson and his Hawaiian friend.

About 15 visitors attended from Salt Spring Island. They travelled aboard the Costa Plenty, skippered by Ted Gear.

They can afford to relax at last!

The cooks have it. Fifth annual Seafood smorgasbord was presented by Galiano Lions Club on Saturday. The men behind the scenes were guest chef and singer, left, Sol Badagos, here from Hawaii and George Georgeson. They can afford to relax, here, the

Les Busswood drowns in Hawaii

Les Busswood, well-known on Salt Spring Island, where he had a retirement home, was drowned last week end while on holiday in Maui, one of the Hawaiian Islands.

Reports indicate that Busswood was swimming in the bay with his wife, Deirdre, when he was caught by the heavy undertow and could not recover. Mrs. Busswood swam free.

Memorial service was held in Vancouver on Thursday, when his elder son, Kevin was invited to speak of his recollections of Les Busswood was an employee of Canadian Pacific Transport. He was the owner of the home on St. Mary Lake which was blown apart in the great windstorm of three years ago. He was 58 years of age.

He leaves his wife, Deirdre and two sons, Kevin and Mike.

Sketching course is offered

Art Simons, well known Salt Spring Island artist, will offer another outdoor sketching class through Continuing Education. The course will run for four Saturdays, April 16 to May 7,

Art likes to work outdoors for the bulk of his material for many reasons, one being the fact that the cool B.C. weather helps to shape the artist's drawing. It is simply not comfortable to fuss over a painting for hours and

This spring's class will stress watercolour techniques and beginners or experienced people are equally welcome. Mahon Hall will be the meeting place each Saturday morning at 9.30 when the class will decide on the locale of the day's sketching.

Fined $200

The offence of driving while the license is suspended is so serious, a Salt Spring Island driver was told last week, a jail sentence is almost mandatory. "But I see no purpose in sending you there, he continued, "You will have to pay a fine of some

Pleading guilty to driving without a license, Kenneth Robert Isberg was fined $200 or 30

Serving the hungry hordes

The start of it all

Serving the hungry hordes was a long job for the volunteers on

ISLAND MAN DEFENDS HIMSELF

After dismissing his counsel because "he couldn't afford the fee", Donald J. Smith, of Ganges, successfully disputed a charge and was found not guilty of fraudulently obtaining social assistance when he was not entitled to it, when he appeared in Ganges Provincial Court last

Court was told that last June and July Smith applied for welfare payments and in each month completed an application form whose veracity he swore to.

He received welfare cheques for the two months despite the fact that he and his wife owned the shares of a company which owned a boat worth at least

Smith told the court that when he made a sworn statement that he possessed no property, he was attesting to the truth. The boat in question belongs to a company of which he and his wife are sharehold-

The same form enquired whether he owned stocks or bonds and he stated that he did not. All he had were some shares in his own company.

Despite extensive questioning by the Crown counsel, he stood by his assertions.

Charge of fraud must show intent. Judge H.E. Alder explained that there was not enough evidence to prove any intent to make a fraudulent

The Judge also noted that while the shares were the item challenged, there had been no value shown in court. Claimant may own property up to the Clam chowder started the whole thing off. Here it is coming from the pot.

Truck ditched on Galiano early Sunday

Driver suffered facial cuts when the truck owned by F.R. Smith Towing, of Burnaby, left the road on Retreat Cove Road. Galiano, at 8 am Sunday.

Driving the truck was John William Georgeson. Police report that he lost control and the truck ran into the ditch.

Damage was estimated at $800 to the body and undercar-

RCMP is still investigating the accident.

What would you expect? Islander meets islander in South Seas

What more likely place to meet Salt Spring Islanders than the South Seas? And that's where they met. Not in the commercially popular, high-in-terest resorts, but in the back-

And it rained. Wet rain: warm rain; but rain that poured outside and condensed into streamers inside.

Arthur and Betty Halfnights have just returned from a threeweek tour that took them to Moorea and Papeete in Tahiti, then New Zealand, and finally to Colin and Anne Mouat, accompanied by Fred and Iola Brookbanks, spent three weeks in Moorea and Papeete, continuing to the Yasawa Islands, and various parts of Fiji.

They crossed paths with the Halfnights in Moorea and Yanuca Islands, and enjoyed comparing notes at these places.

Colin and Fred met with Lions groups at Nadi and Suva North, and were royally welcomed by those club members. Salt Spring Island banners were exchanged for those of the Fiji

While in Fiji, Fred Brookbanks arranged for distribution of some of the eyeglasses donated by Salt Spring residents to Colin and Fred also provided Volleyball equipment for a small school in the remote island village of Nabukeru.

Balanced

Ollie Garner is seen completing his balancing act on Saturday evening in Galiano Hall. He doesn't know everything has gone from the tray.

Sudden death of young Salt Spring student

Seventeen-year-old Ganges student died suddenly on Tuesday evening, March 15.

Howard McLeod Baltzer was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles

St. George's Anglican Church in Ganges was filled on Friday afternoon, when funeral services were conducted by Rev. Peter McCalman.

He leaves his parents, at home; a brother, Geoffrey, three sisters, Stephanie, Rosalind and Mary and his grandmother, Mrs. C. Baltzer in Nova Scotia. Interment was in the Anglican Memorial Cemetery.

Arrangements were by Goodman Funeral Home.

Herring

Mr. Humphreys said that it could well be a cycle that is occurring in these waters. He discounted the possibility of it being a result of pollution, because of the widespread area that is affected.

He also mentioned that the limited number of fish spawning in this area was no cause for concern over possible depletion of herring stocks.

"At Cedar, near Nanaimo, they are reporting more herring spawning than they've seen in years," said Mr. Humphreys. "It would appear that the herring that would have spawned in Ganges Harbour or other bays in this area have by-passed these waters in favour of places where there is more vegetation."

A fisheries spokesman in Vancouver told Driftwood that 781 tons of herring have been caught in this Management Unit since the fishery opened on February 27. Approximately the same number of herring were netted here last year.

On Friday morning last week the Fisheries Research Vessel Caligus took the research barge in tow, leaving for Nanoose Bay, where the researchers and divers on board will continue their work.

take greater care in kites and other airborne objects near power lines, Islands Hydro Manager John Thomson disclosed this week that the glider had apparently been abandoned by the flyer when it struck a 138,000 volt transmission cable.

The kite short-circuited the lines and burned to a crisp.

There was no sign of the

"He either fell or jumped from the glider before it hit the transmission line," explained

Kites are still anathema to the BC Hydro manager.

Every year children fly kites into transmission lines and break down power supplies at the same time as they hazard their own lives.

In any case, warned the manager, no child or adult should contemplate climbing a pole to release a kite. He may be dead before he hits the ground.

NOBODY ELSE

"Only trained linemen have the experience and equipment to work near high voltage lines in safety," warned Thomson.

There are other hazards. They haven't given trouble on the island, but they have proved fatal in other communities.

The first of these potential hazards is a television antenna.

People in other communities have died as a result of a television antenna hitting a high voltage line.

He recalled the case of a man seeking to mount a television antenna on the roof of a hotel in Vancouver. The antenna fixer climbed a fire escape to the roof. The antenna struck a power line, introducing him to 12,000 volts. He lived, but he suffered severe Citizen Band radio antennas are high. Owners would make good and sure that if they should fall there is no way they could come into contact with high power transmission lines, warned Thomson.

The owner rarely gets a second chance. He is usually so dead after the first time that he has no time to risk it again.

Young Stephen Anderson, a new goalie for the Canucks, worked so hard that he must have lost ten pounds by keeping out more than 42 shots on goal.

It's too bad that they don't have a permanent goalie, and seems rather tragic when boys sign up to play hockey and never turn up for the games or practices. They are not only letting themselves down, but the team that they are signed up for depends on them.

John Pinchin, the stalwart goalie of the Barons, also did a tremendous job of goal tending, and also stopped a barrage of more than 40 shots on goal, with no scoring against him in the second period. The final outcome of the game was Canucks, 4 and Barons, 10.

Canuck's scorers were Douglas Elliott, 3 and Craig Sollitt, 1.

Barons' scorers were Mikael Fraser, 2; Norman Valcourt, 1; Mark O'Donnell, 2; Tom Shelby, 2; Warren Kyle, 2; Tom Toynbee, 1.

The girls finally broke their time game scores again with the Fire Kittens, 3 and the Wildcats, 7. Coaches always speak proudly of their girls and have nothing but good to say about them. They are pleased with the way the girls play and handle themselves on skates.

In any other publication but a geographical journal, Driftwood would have read the report with interest and without comment. In face of the magazine's association with geography, the staff at Driftwood expressed regret that Fulford Harbour was identified with Galiano Island and that Saturna Island is listed as a legacy from the Spanish, instead of the Royal Navy.

Cup final

SALT SPRING FIGHTS TO TIE AT DUNCAN

Salt Spring Rotary Canadians, 4; Duncan Stenmarks, 4

Fighting back from a 4-1 deficit, Canadians brought honour and glory to their island home by a superb performance to tie and share the cup cham-pionship with Duncan on Satur-

Both teams displayed the utmost sportsmanship, courage and skill in an extremely fast soccer game which neither deserved to lose.

They had eliminated all the Victoria and Lower Island teams in earlier cup rounds and finally stood nose to nose on the field of U Vic ready to do battle. And battle they did, accompanied by the deafening roar from a vast crowd of representatives from Salt Spring, Duncan, Saanich, Colwood and Victoria districts. BEHIND 3-1

By half-time the Canadians had fallen behind 3-1 and early in the second half by a score of 4-1. Showing remarkable powers of recovery, however, Canadians came back with three unanswered goals from Quesnel, Cottrell and MacLean which, with Spence's early goal gave them the tie.

The forward line played an aggressive and cohesive game. Richard Quesnel and Chris Cottrell provided excellent diminutive craft and skill. MacLean and McFadyen as well as Spence, when he wasn't in defence, injected that hustle and bustle in thrustful plays which kept Duncan constantly on their heels. Colin, Ross, Larry and in addition Allan Webb, Richard and Chris combined to produce a highly potent forward line.
HALF BACKS THERE

The half-backs of Trevor Tamboline and Arne Hengstler, as usual, put out their maximum effort and were largely responsible for the strong challenge at mid-field. Their tireless performance created the essential cohesive link between attack and

Stemming the flow of Dun-can's outflanking attacks were the wing backs of Billy ten Veen, Marvin Foerster, David Toynbee and, again, Larry Spence. Many last minute slides to protect their goal characterized the courageous exploits of these defencemen. Albert Black at centre-back played an outstanding game and as well as getting a kick in the head, thwarted many Duncan

WALKER IN GOAL

Dereck Walker, in goal, made his usual miraculous stops or cut down the angle to make the advancing forwards shoot wide.

It is to the credit of Walter Gossett, back-up goalie who took the team with victories through Divisions "C" and "B" that Dereck is the most outstanding goalkeeper in the league today.

Lastly, team captain and leading goal scorer Carlo Legg, while pumped up with aspirin and vitamin pills to quell the 'flu and stomach cramps perhaps typified the controlled determination of Canadians. The occasion was auspicious as was Canadians' performance. The team is a credit to parents, the coach and manager and to Salt Spring

That's correct! And how absurd!

- How absurd!
- No really What is it?
- Don't ask. Come see for yourself. It's like Zen. Yes, that's it...it's like silence. Then again, it's an extremely noisy

 You contradict yourself
- Yes. But if i asked you, "Does life have meaning?" would you answer in the affirmative? I would have to answer, honestly...yes and no. And how about those notorious ways that God works with man? The Devil aside, a bit absurd, don't you
- Sounds a bit heavy.
- . Well, if we eliminate God, then where is meaning to be found? And if we begin with God, and he's all Good, then we've got to reckon with a Devil as well. You know, the Devil began as a trickster, a kind of buffoon.
- · What has all this to do with The Bald Prima Donna, or the absurd?
- · Nothing...that is to say, everything. I mean, it's an extremely light and amusing play. But the Absurd (if we can really call it that) is a theatrical approach to life as a whole. Because a tickle or a pain travels on the same

District Cup eludes Salt Spring team after long season record

Salt Spring Kicks, 1; Peninsula

The Kicks, 6C League Champions, came up short in their first Cup Final appearance.

A combination of cup jitters by the Salt Spring boys and a strong team performance by the Pumas left the Kicks on the wrong end of a 2-1 decision.

The Kicks started the game slowly, with their kicking and passing erratic and their well-known teamplay non-existent. Meanwhile, the Pumas hustled to and fro across the field hemming the Salt Spring squad into their own zone. Only the outstanding play of Trory, Buckley, Tamboline and Hoeller in defence and, particularly, Marr, in the nets, kept the Kicks in the Late in the first half, the Kicks had several forays at the Pumas' end of the field. One nearly resulted in a goal as Leadbetter's cross slipped past an onward-rushing Walker and then slid past the post for a goal-kick. ONCE AGAIN

After the scoreless first half, the army of Salt Spring fans attending the game, hoped the Kicks would come to life in the second half. But, once again, the Pumas came out flying, using a close-checking style of play which gave the Salt Spring boys very little room to operate. After one flurry around the Kicks net a Pumas forward picked up a rebound and drilled a shot through a hand-full of defenders into the corner of the net. The Pumas quickly added to their lead as they scored on a breakaway, and the Kicks fate appeared to be set.

Suddenly the Kicks sparked to life as a Leadbetter cross put Hoeller in the clear and Andrew drilled a high shot that eluded nerve fibers. The absurd is as light as a laugh. And man! That's why it's so heavy!

The Bald Prima Donna will be offered at Mahon Hall, in Ganges, on March 31 - April 3.

the Pumas netminder. Try as they may the Kicks could not score the equalizer and with the final whistle Salt Springs' hopes were dashed.

COMMENDABLE

Even so, the Salt Spring boys gave their all and, considering their fine league performance of only one loss in league play and their impressive wins to reach the final, the boys should be commended on their strong showing in their first season as a

We can all be proud in the fine representation these boys gave the Island and their impressive accomplishments this season. We can be sure the Kicks will be back in the finals next year and from the experience the boys have gained this year, the result could well be different next time around.

Warning film on oil spills in local waters for planners

Islanders who were present at the planning workshop held at Harbour House last Sunday were able to view a slide presentation dealing with the dangers of an oil spill on the west coast.

The film was produced by Salt Spring Islander Sam Lightman under the sponsorship of SPEC, and outlined the damage that would occur should a spill take place.

After the 15-minute presentation, Mr. Lightman answered questions concerning what was

CAMPBELL SPELLS IT OUT

Dog control is still function of province rather than region

The provincial department of agriculture, anxious to shed its controversial domestic animal protection program, has still offered no real enticement to the Capital Regional Board to take over the service.

Regional Board Chairman Jim Campbell said after a recent meeting of electoral area direct-ors with representatives of the department of agriculture, that the government seems unwilling so far to make any continuing financial contribution, apart from funds received from the sale of dog license tags.

Historically, the department of agriculture has been charged with administering financial compensation for owners of livestock killed by marauding dogs,

LAW AND ORDER

The responsibility for collecting dog license fees in unorganized territory has from time to time been that of local law enforcement officers or, in special cases, officials appointed by the department of agriculture.

"Thus, dog control is a law-and-order matter as well as a function of the department of agriculture, and clearly is a responsibility of the provincial

Offence costs more than fine

Driving offence cost Victor Earl Fisher, of Victoria, more

The young driver told Judge H.E. Alder in Ganges Provincial Court last week that he was employed as warehouseman and truck driver.

Pleading guilty to a charge of driving while the blood-alcohol level exceeded 0.08%, Fisher was fined $500. He also lost his license for three months.

Judge Alder authorized him to drive his car home.

"Do you realize that the fine for this offence could be $2,000?" asked the judge, "unfortunately there is no course here for impaired drivers like they have on the mainland.'

district, dog control is a matter which "clearly is in the purview government, the way things stand," Campbell said.

The provincial government collects a 10-mill levy from residential property owners in unorganized territory for services rendered there by various government departments, but department of agriculture spokesmen told Campbell they are not permitted to use any of this money for the dog control and domestic animal compensation programs.

IF FAIRLY FINANCED

Regional electoral area directors have indicated a willingness to assume the responsibility for providing this service, if it can be financed fairly.

Campbell advised Agricul-ture Minister James Hewitt on March 2 that he felt the regional board would undertake this function "subject to a satisfactory revenue source being found."

But, until such time as it is satisfactorily transferred to the of your local member of the Legislative Assembly," says Campbell.
