

Mizpah prepares for bazaar

Contributed by
OLIVE MOUAT

They are a busy bunch, those Mizpah women. They save Thursdays for work that is of use to the church.

For the last two months, as well as for most Thursdays from January to June, work bees have been devoted to producing monkeys and dolls, car toys and Christmas hangings, baby booties and mothers' hot dish holders, and gifts and gifts and gifts for Christmas giving. The bazaar, the reason for all this work, is on Saturday, Nov. 8.

The time when the bazaar opens always causes discussion. This year, the sale of home cooking will begin at 1:45 in the upstairs hall of the Ganges United Church. At two o'clock, when goodies have been bought and carried to cars, selling in the lower hall will begin. As usual, the bazaar will be an excellent place to buy Christmas gifts and a pleasant spot to enjoy tea with friends who gather there once a year.

Christmas gift suggestions will start with children's sweaters and knitted toys; range through calendars, jewellery, hand-sewn articles and novelties; and culminate in arrangements of dried flowers.

The regular meeting of Mizpah was held, naturally, on Thursday. President Mrs. Lois Bushell was assisted by secretary Miss Betty McGinnes and treasurer Mrs. Buntly McNally. Twenty-two voices answered the roll call.

The Devotional Period was led by Mrs. Margaret Allan; prayers in connection with the collection of the least coin by this writer; sunshine report was given by Mrs. Gladys Bidwell; church plants and flowers will be cared for by Mrs. Biz Stratton and Mrs. Chris Pattison and tea was served by Mrs. Kay Allan and Mrs. Doris Gibson.

Noise bylaw for district regulations under consideration to suggest that the noise in electoral areas is greater than in municipalities. But municipalities control their own areas.

If the bylaw says, "Shut up!"

these noises are considered objectionable:

- Shouting or using a megaphone in a public place.
- Disturbing the peace and quiet of a neighbourhood.
- Excessive volume from radio, stereo or television to the disturbance of others in the neighbourhood.
- Keeping noisy animals or birds.
- Operating a noisy vehicle, stationary engine or loud motors such as one with a faulty muffler.
- Using amplified sound to create noise without permission.
- Sounding car horns needlessly.
- Loading and unloading trucks with excessive noise.

Those were the instances listed by the chief community planner, J. G. Masterson.

The proposed bylaw prohibits megaphones or other noise on streets, wharves, docks, stations or other public places. Nobody may create noise in or on a highway to the discomfort or inconvenience of the community.

Emergency vehicles would not be included in the ban on noise. Use a car horn as a needed danger warning would also be excused. Reasonable amplification of the human voice or music in a park or square would be permissible, as would bells or chimes on churches.

Parades would be unaffected.

Erection, demolition, construction, altering or repair of any building would be permitted whatever noise was part of the job, between 7 am and 7 pm except on Sunday or in emergency.

Garbage collection would be restricted to between the hours of 7 am and 8 pm in residential areas or 6 am and 8 pm in commercial areas so defined.

The bylaw is in the preparation stage and no action has been taken beyond preliminary consideration in committee.

They were among hundreds

Part of the crowded scene at Fulford Hall on Saturday when hundreds of islanders flocked to the flea market. Stalls offered a choice of thousands of articles as islanders worked hard to empty their basements. Proceeds from the market will go to paying the taxes on the community hall.

Some opposition

Sailing club proposal gets green light from Trust

Two strong expressions of opposition were heard last Wednesday evening when the Salt Spring Island Trust Committee enquired into the extension of the water lease at the Salt Spring Island Sailing Club.

Against plans for a floating breakwater and additional mooring spaces were Mrs. Doris Butler Mitchell and Mrs. A.M. Sharp.

Mrs. Mitchell asserted that the plan to extend the water zone would undermine the value of her property, as well as that of Mrs. Sharp.

Mrs. Sharp reported that her late husband was a founder of the club, but that he would have agreed with her view.

Doug Thomas told the hearing that the floating breakwater is necessary because of the wash created by boats travelling up and down the harbour.

Robert Aston had opposed the initial construction of the club headquarters, but many of his fears have not materialized. Nevertheless, he feared that a larger operation could be less careful.

Ron McQuiggan opposed the expansion and a number of sailors spoke in defence.

The committee later debated the issue and approved the foreshore lease change which will permit the expansion to go ahead.

Breakdowns plague buses

Are the islands' school buses wearing out was a question posed at last week's meeting of the Gulf Islands School Board, after trustees were told of some recent breakdowns.

The bus on the Fulford run blew a gasket last week and lost its oil. The north end bus was put out of commission when the transmission blew and the Galiano bus suffered a blown exhaust system.

Secretary-treasurer Wilk Peck blamed the problems on "the general quality of mechanical equipment in the world today." He explained that the district carries out a preventative maintenance program on its vehicles.

But when a new bus is purchased, he continued, "we go through agony for a year getting the bugs out".

Big unit on a little chassis is motor home

That's his big tandem Toyota. Once he gets it rolling along the highway it shows what three axles can do to a journey. Owner Robert Burns, of Sidney, was on Salt Spring Island looking at a property when the photographer saw his unusual vehicle.

The Travette is a conversion undertaken in California, he told the photographer. The effect of the second axle is so far improved over twin wheels that "you can feel them pressing up off the road" when going round a corner. Original unit is a standard Toyota pickup.

Sixteen finish first aid course

BY KATHLYN AND BASIL
BENDER

Sixteen survivors of the industrial first aid course begun six weeks ago finished their 50 hours of instruction and many additional hours of practical and home study Sunday, Oct. 19.

They spent the whole of the following day being examined by Workers' Compensation Board examiner, John Dean, from Courtenay. The subject matter of the course was tested extremely thoroughly by a multiple choice test of 150 questions which took two to three hours to complete. During the four-hour-long practical examination, candidates were confronted with gory photographs of actual injuries and then had to apply the appropriate treatment to a fellow student.

The class was tested individually and in pairs on CPR (cardio pulmonary resuscitation), a facet of the course which is of increasing importance to saving lives, particularly of heart patients. It was suggested by the examiner that more islanders would find it beneficial to learn CPR. Those interested should contact ambulance coordinators Peter and Jean Dunn at 2629.

All students agreed that whether they passed this exhaustive test or not, they had learned a great deal about the treatment of injury and medical emergencies at the first aid level and so would be better able to carry out their responsibilities as ambulance attendants.

To celebrate the end of the course the class, accompanied by instructor Bea Lane of Pender Island and the examiner, enjoyed a seafood dinner and an evening of good fellowship. Mrs. Lane complimented her students on their efforts and on the valuable camaraderie which had developed as they learned, worked and laughed together.

She felt it important that the community should know how much time and energy had been spent by the first aiders in order that they could more competently serve their fellows in medical emergencies.

The class showed its appreciation of the competence and sense of humour of the teacher by presenting her with a casserole by Galiano potters, the Partingtons, accompanied by a card bearing individual messages and a print of local rocks by photographer Betty Fairbank.

Professional matters were not entirely neglected. Mrs. Lane was given a prototype model of a new kind of stretcher (patients pending) invented by one of her students. The stretcher has not yet been tested under field conditions, seems the local unit. The examiner, John Dean, showed to the class and presented to Mrs. Lane a new, so-far unofficial CPR manual, lavishly and amusingly illustrated but with a rather inadequate text.

Galiano residents may be justifiably pleased that there are now a dozen potential ambulance attendants. The addition of three new, younger members, Linda Simpson, Debbie Murray and Roy Treloar, will be a great relief to middle-aged veterans George, Hardy and Smith.

Congratulations to Pender Islanders Leyland Kirkness and Joyce Robinson and to Salt Spring unit manager Jim McPherson who endured the discomforts of commuting as well as the rigours of the course.

LADIES' GOLF

On Galiano most island organizations hold their annual general meetings in the depth of winter, with the result that there is a plethora of meetings from January to March and a scarcity of dedicated people willing to devote time and energy to the various offices that need filling.

The ladies' section of the Golf Club is to be congratulated on several counts. First, they held a well-attended annual general meeting on October 21, which had the additional attraction of providing a cold plate luncheon arranged by members Alice and Lil Morrisette. Furthermore, the treasurer was able to declare a healthy bank balance, the outcome of three very successful fund-raising events held during the year.

The new executive officers elected for 1981 include Linda Carpinni as captain with Betty Steward as match captain, Jean Goodrich as secretary and Esther Lantinga as treasurer. May Ferguson will serve as handicap chairman and Nancy Usher as social convener. The retiring captain, Elspeth King, was presented with an illustrated album of her year of office and a pair of handsome earthenware mugs from Dunoon, Scotland.

HALLOWE'EN

Whoo-oo-oo! The night of ghouls and goblins is at hand. At dusk on Friday evening, Galiano should switch on their porch lights to welcome small trick-or-treaters.

At 6:30 pm islanders of all ages, in costume or not, are welcome at the South End Community Hall to share in the Galiano Club's Grand Halloween Parade, Party and Pyrotechnic Display. Parents and friends are asked to contribute edible goodies and bring them to the market on Friday morning or with them in the evening.

YOGA

The yoga group will resume its regular Wednesday morning meetings at 10:30 am in the Community Hall on November 5.

NATURE NOTES

Betty Brooks of South Pender Island reports hearing three or four pygmy owls in the vicinity of the school. This is the smallest of the owls likely to be seen in our area, a mere seven to eight inches long, and a very unusual sighting.

By listening carefully and imitating its call, a short mellow whistle, Mrs. Brooks was able to attract the birds to her. How appropriate that owls, symbol of the goddess of wisdom, Minerva, should frequent that area and reveal themselves to one so interested in education.

Long-time residents mark 50th anniversary

When George and Edna Rose marked their golden wedding anniversary last week it was an anniversary with a difference.

Mother was there.

The bride's mother, Mrs. M. A. Burke, came from Nanaimo to take part in the celebrations. She was at the original wedding in Vancouver, on October 23, 1930 and she came to the island to mark the passage of 50 years.

The couple have lived on Salt Spring since September, 1964, when they retired from Vancouver.

And they haven't come very far from home, at that. George Rose was born in Vancouver and his bride came from Victoria. Marrying in Vancouver, they lived in Vancouver.

George Rose was superintendent of a furniture factory in Vancouver when he retired. Today, 16 years later, he is still active and cuts and sells wood.

Their two children, Sharon Sparling, Salt Spring Island and George Rose, Jr., of Port Alberni were here for the celebration with their seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The family gathering was in the Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 26.

ABORTION:

An individual, personal issue

At the risk of sounding self-righteous, I would like to publicly proclaim myself a pro-lifer. But I consider the question of abortion to be a highly moral, and therefore individual and personal issue.

That's why I feel that no one has the right to decide for a pregnant woman whether or not she should be allowed an abortion. Nor would I like someone to tell me that two is the number of children allowed and I would not be able to have any more.

I'm in a comfortable position. The world would not come crashing down on me if I were suddenly to become pregnant. But for some it would. Especially those young girls, 14 years old and under, unable to comprehend the womanhood their bodies have imposed on them in the form of menstruation because of our society's inability to teach them about their sexuality.

The incidence of pregnancy in this age group has risen by 30% in the last seven years. The world would come crashing down on them, if not quickly, very surely over the course of their lifetime.

DOORS WOULD CLOSE

The door to any opportunities they might have had would close. No school, no job, no travel; a very limited world to grow up in and I'm talking about the mother, not the child. The latter will be influenced by a mother who is sure to be dissatisfied with her situation before long.

Learning how to prevent unwanted pregnancies is probably the most sensible advice a mother can give her daughter. Otherwise, she is placed in the position of a mindless vehicle, at the mercy of her ignorance.

And I'm not letting boys off the hook. Their position is also unenviable. The child so thoughtlessly conceived may be the child who grows up never knowing his father because of a broken marriage, or grows up being abused because of a bad one.

And I'm not letting parents off the hook. Why is it so hard for parents to discuss sexuality and sex with their own sons and daughters. What is easier about hoping they will learn the facts of life by themselves?

IT CAME LATE

I'm quite confident I won't get pregnant. I have over the years informed myself of all the possible forms of birth control available to me and I have practised almost all of them at one time or another. But this self-initiative didn't come to me until after my second unplanned pregnancy and that is too late for anyone.

The impression that we live in an enlightened, liberated society is only true for adults, tried and tested. When it comes to educating our children about their sexual identities and roles we prefer to leave it up to them, and they invariably learn about it, just like we did a quarter, or a half-century ago, in the back seats of cars, of in dark doorways, or in magazines.

It is a very sad fact that we don't

One woman's viewpoint

BY ALICE RICHARDS

inform youngsters about sex until they are already faced with a pregnancy or a marriage.

THE ANSWER

Education is the answer to the preventative medicine of abortion. I agree with a report by the Social Planning and Review Council of B.C. that says prevention of pregnancy requires more than just birth control information. Education about life would be sensible. It must become the job of parents and schools.

It seems as if schools are dealing with little people who will all go on to university or enter the job force and never form the families of tomorrow. The social service departments and volunteer organizations are left to offer the programs that should be mandatory for students - programs such as parenting, marriage courses, child psychology. But these programs are sadly under-funded by the government which makes it necessary for them to rely on volunteer help.

There are good programs which have been developed by organizations such as the B.C. Council for the Family that go far beyond what a person can learn for himself.

Together, parents and schools have the opportunity to reverse the abortion figures, reverse single-parent-family figures, reverse teenage pregnancy figures. Society's problems, ignored by parents, feared by teachers, end up at the social worker's door, or in the operating room of a hospital, when it's far too late.

I've finally reached the end of the long, long road to Canadian citizenship. No less than five Salt Spring Islanders became citizens at a ceremony held in Victoria a few weeks ago.

There were 67 new citizens altogether, with people relinquishing their citizenships from almost two dozen countries. Most of them were Americans. The citizenship court adopted 1,300 new Canadians last year in the Victoria court alone.

It took me 25 years and now I can't wait for the next provincial election to exercise my new-found freedom to vote.

Valcourt scores Young for failure

Campbell was wrong. Legal opinion received by the Capital Regional Board last week made it clear that the chairman, Jim Campbell, was probably in error when he took action recently over a vote.

Earlier in the year the board voted on the exclusion of the islands from the transit service area. The islands wanted out of the bus business which doesn't serve them. The vote was taken and the chairman ruled that the motion was defeated.

Salt Spring Island Director challenged the vote, a weighted vote, and it proved that the motion had, in fact, carried.

POWER OF VETO

Subsequently, on July 9, a motion to exclude Salt Spring Island and the Outer Islands from the transit service area was approved. The chairman then applied his power of veto and the motion was brought back to the board. And lost.

Director Valcourt then challenged the routine. The chairman could only apply his veto if no action had been taken on the matter following the initial vote, she asserted. The original motion had passed and the exclusion of the islands had been passed on to the Urban Transit Authority. This represented an action taken on the motion and, therefore, the chairman's action in exercising his veto was beyond the terms of the municipal act, she told the board.

The executive director, Dennis Young was directed to gain legal advice on the questions.

The advice of regional solicitor, P. J. Pearlman brought up an entirely new aspect to the question.

Does the chairman have the authority to exercise the powers of a mayor under Section 240 of the municipal act? And if so, did the action of the chairman in this instance come within the terms of the act? The two questions were directed to the solicitor.

EXTENDS POWERS

The municipal act clearly extends the powers of the mayor to call for a delay in effecting a motion to the chairman of the board, was the reply.

But it does so only in respect of matters dealt with under the letters patent granted to the board. And the transit function is not listed in the letters patent. So the chairman was not entitled to invoke Section 240, directors learned.

The procedure could be quashed by a court should the decision be challenged.

The question is academic, explained Chairman Campbell last week, inasmuch as bylaw No. 788 excludes the islands from paying the transit levy.

The legal opinion recommends that the board seek amendment to its letters patent to have the transit function included.

NOT VISUALIZED

When the municipal act was written, explained the lawyer, it was not anticipated that municipalities would be responsible for functions not included in the municipal act. Hence, the exclusion of urban transit.

Valcourt was concerned that the board had asked, at the beginning of summer, for a further advice. Was the bylaw excluding all the islands the same bylaw which had been debated since January? The executive director failed to ask this question of the regional solicitor, she protested.

If it was the same bylaw, then the chairman was doubly in error over his exercise of the veto, she contended, and the chairman's action was invalid.

The solicitor does not say the action was invalid, countered Campbell.

"He says the action must stand until such time as it might come to court."

The chairman added that he accepts the matter as academic because the Outer Islands are not paying the levy.

"We've dealt with the yo-yo matter and I propose to leave it where it is," he concluded.

Pioneer in recycling field: most liquor bottles in region

Next time you hear that over-population in the Third World is to blame for present shortages, remember that we consume 40 times as much as they do! And much of our consumption is wastage.

It's difficult for us to change our lifestyle, but one way to alleviate problems caused by our wasteful society is to recycle.

I now regard it as offensive, morally and economically, to throw away anything which can be used again, or to buy new anything which is available second-hand. The economics have been explained to me -- how massive unemployment will result, but frankly, I don't believe it.

It will take a long time for our miniscule effort to be felt by the industrial establishment. They are much too busy putting people out of work by automation to worry about the stuff we are re-using or recycling.

Salt Spring Island has been a pioneer in this field, and we are justly proud of our record of (a) the most liquor bottles in the Capital Region and (b) the best-organized recycling shed in the area.

ENLARGED FACILITIES

To keep pace with our expanding population, we have enlarged our facilities. When construction in the K&R parking lot forced us to move, through the kindness of Art Hudson we were able to relocate between the Liquor Store and Keith's Upholstery (the old Driftwood office).

We planned an extension to accommodate the barrels which hold the smashed glass. Imagine our disgust when over $100 worth of materials, placed on site on Friday evening, was stolen by Saturday morning, the day of the building work party! That's not recycling, that's lowdown theft!

We all work hard at recycling. Our volunteers work every Saturday: my teenage son works after school on a more or less daily basis; our co-ordinators work for a month at a time rounding up volunteers. Hardest of all, we work at getting money from the Capital Region to help us keep the premises wind and water-proof and to buy the necessary tools.

Here I must mention the tremendous co-operation we have received from our own director, Mrs. Valcourt. We salute all our helpers. We also salute people who bring their clean bottles, squashed cans also clean, newspapers neatly tied.

SYSTEM ABUSED

We do not salute those who contribute decomposed chickens, mice in bottles or noxious substances wrapped in plastic. This is abuse of the system, those who operate it and the whole philosophy of recycling. These are good ethical people and they deserve support from the rest of the community.

On August 14 The Province Index noted: "Canadian firm charged with contravening U.N. embargo" but the story was missing. I wrote the paper and was sent the item and a note: "Not sure what happened - was probably only in an early edition." Space Research Corp. of Montreal was fined $55,000 on seven counts:

"A blanket guilty plea was entered to charges that the company shipped at least 33,000 howitzer shells and a variety of howitzer parts to South Africa and falsified export certificates by giving Spain, Antigua and Barbados as their destinations. The offences were committed between October 1976 and September 1978..."

TOO COSTLY

"Declaring the Space Research case closed, chief federal prosecutor Rejean Paul said it was "likely" enough evidence existed to justify charges against the company's chief officers, Gerald Bull and Rodgers Gregory. But they were not charged because the main offences were committed outside Canada and would have necessitated costly trips to interview witnesses in Holland, West Germany, Barbados, Spain, Philadelphia, Pa., and Burlington, Vt."

Isn't it nice to hear a government department trying to save us money? Restores your faith, doesn't it? Does it? Read on:

"Bull" and Gregory, pleading guilty to similar charges in Vermont last June, were each sentenced to a year in jail, six months of it suspended...the company was fined $45,000 by the Vermont court."

NO SURPRISE

After that, it's no surprise that Dr. Gerald Bull, of North Bridge, Ontario, was the genius behind the "world's deadliest artillery system" recently tested in South Africa. Charges of a global plot involve European firms as well as our Space Research Corp., and of course, the CIA!

It promises to be so tangled an issue that we may never know the truth, but at least Canada has another candidate for the Hall of Fame. Dr. Gerald Bull, developer of a 155 mm gun which fires a nuclear warhead and provides South Africa with a splendid defense system when they are attacked - by whoever! Just wish I knew whose side I'm on!

Don't rush out to buy shares in Space Research. They changed their name, closed their compound on the U.S. border and fired 200 employees. The Canadian "subsidiary" went into receivership in June and is up for sale! I'd like to think crime doesn't pay, but it's more likely that the sole purpose of the corporation has now been fulfilled.

From Pearson College

Students visit Pender School

BY ELEANOR HARRISON

Eight students from the Lester B. Pearson College of the Pacific spent a weekend on Pender Island recently.

They spent one day at the school, becoming acquainted with island students and telling the students about themselves, their home countries and Pearson College where they now live and study.

All of them spoke excellent English.

The Pearson College program runs for two years. Some of the students had just arrived four weeks earlier to begin their studies while some were entering their second year. Their ages varied from 17 and 19 years.

The college covers grade 12 and first-year university equivalent, is co-educational and is a member of the United World College system of international educational institutions. At Pearson College there are 200 students.

The college is named in honour of Canada's Nobel Peace Prize winner and former prime minister, Lester B. Pearson, and is located 18 miles from Victoria. Students are chosen by selection committees across Canada and around the world.

The college brings together students and teachers to study and work together, in the belief that by human contact students will see through the veils of cultural, historical and political prejudice and that peace can be brought about by understanding and knowledge.

Total cost per student is $7,500 per year and includes all tuition, room, meals, medical costs and insurance at no cost to the student except for personal expenses. Entrance requirement is by writing of the International Baccalaureate Examinations, in English or French, which are marked in Geneva.

There are four of these colleges located throughout the world.

The students visiting the Pender School were from Dusseldorf, Germany; Melbourne, Australia; Freeport, Bahamas; Dublin, Ireland; Tokyo, Japan; Mexico City; Montivideo, Uruguay; and Whitehorse, Yukon Territory.

During the weekend the visiting students went for a trip on Mike Milton's fishboat and made a visit to Max Allan's sawmill operation.

Parking problems at school

Two Ganges residents have expressed alarm over vehicle congestion in the parking lot at Gulf Islands Secondary School.

In a letter to the Gulf Islands School District, Phil Knowles and Ursula Sinclair, who both live adjacent to the parking lot, complained about the large number of cars and the blocking of one of their driveways.

On the evening of October 9, the district was told, there were 24 vehicles in the parking area while continuing education classes were in progress. The letter concluded by asking that the school board consider hiring a parking attendant.

Trustees supported a motion by Strick Aust, who suggested that the district could provide signs for the area, warning motorists that their vehicles could be towed away if they are parked in front of the driveways. The two property owners, however, would have to take the responsibility for towing away any vehicles.

Trustee Mary Williamson described as "chintzy" a suggestion that the residents erect the signs.

"If the vehicles are there because of us, we should pay for the signs," she stated.

Aust felt that the board should take a "good neighbour" approach.

"It's the least we could do for them."

Trustee candidate is well known figure on two islands

Woman who has been known as teacher and counsellor in the islands school for a dozen years is among the candidates for a seat on the Gulf Islands School Board.

Pat James is a real estate saleswoman. She left the teaching profession last year and became a realtor in Ganges.

Graduate of the University of British Columbia, she took her arts degree in psychology and initially engaged in rehabilitation programs for women and young offenders in correctional institutes.

She undertook various post-graduate studies in educational psychology and learning theory and developed a keen interest in education and student guidance. Her concerns took her into programs for gifted children, children with learning difficulties, special reading programs and family group programs.

Miss James also took two years studying accountancy.

TO THE ISLANDS

She came to the islands after teaching and counselling in North Vancouver and Vancouver.

For four years she served as counsellor at Gulf Islands Secondary School. She then moved to Mayne Island, where she was principal for eight years.

She has adopted no position on issues facing the school board, but prefers to work towards a set of objectives.

She told Driftwood that she is looking for closer communications between the four constituent factions in education, the teacher, the parent, the trustee and the student.

She cited her targets when she made known her plans to seek election on Monday.

PAT JAMES

To provide equal education opportunities for children and recognizing their special needs:

To consider the special social requirements and pressures of our time in setting educational goals.

To work within the framework of the school board to increase the motivation of children and teachers to attain the educational goals they help to set.

She added one caution in a brief report to Driftwood.

She feels that she is in the campaign as an individual and not as a teacher or an "ex-teacher".

At Pender

Long-time residents honoured

BY ELEANOR HARRISON

Miss Joan Purchase and Mrs. Daphne Stevens were the guests of honour at an afternoon party at Pender Island on October 12, when about 100 gathered to wish them well at their new homes.

Mrs. Stevens will be living in Sidney and Miss Purchase plans to move to Salt Spring Island.

The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Tallman and arrangements for it were made by Mrs. Maggie Mennie and Mrs. Margaret Tallman, assisted by neighbours and friends.

Miss Purchase came to the island soon after the war and was a leader in island activities for many years. She served on the Capital Regional Board, was active in the island's Chamber of Commerce, was on the board of Lady Minto Hospital, was for many years treasurer of St. Peter's Church and served on many of the old Port Washington Hall Society committees.

Mrs. Stevens has lived on Pender Island for the past 18 years. She is an excellent artist and is a long-time member of the Pender Island Art Club.

The ladies were also entertained by the Art Club of Pender at a tea in the Art Room. They were each presented with a gift from their friends in the club.

Down Through the Years With Driftwood

FIVE YEARS AGO

There are nine candidates for five seats in the coming school board elections. At Mayne Island Pearl A. Brau is meeting the challenge of Edward Thomas Easton. Jean Lorraine Campbell returns to the hustings as she seeks to wrest from Tom Davidson the Saturna seat. Three incumbents at Salt Spring are running again. They are chairman Charles Baltzer, Mrs. I.V. Guthrie and Dr. E.R. Dixon. Two other candidates have appeared to challenge their seats. Mrs. J.R. Sturdy and Mrs. Isabel Goodman have been nominated.

Henry Elder is chairman of the Ganges Planning Committee. Inaugural meeting of the new committee saw Elder named to the chair. It also brought about the firm establishment of boundaries for the Ganges area. Following the original pattern of island planning, the commercial centre will be that area within a mile radius of Centennial Park.

One of Salt Spring Island's most active legionnaires has left to make his home in Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. J.H.M. Lamb have sold their home at St. Mary Lake and have taken up residence in a Victoria apartment building. They have lived on the island for 27 years.

TEN YEARS AGO

Submarine cable at Saturna was burned when a fire was lighted beneath it on October 8. Cable was laid by BC Hydro as part of its major loop service plan for the islands.

Attending the Gulf Island Branch of the BC Historical Society meeting at Saturna last Thursday were Mrs. Annie DeRousie, Mrs. Clara James and Esie Brown from Mayne Island. Pender won the attendance prize with 11 present.

Paul Layard has the answer. Maybe it wouldn't really work, but it would certainly take the pressure off the pigs. "Why not a greasy girl contest?" asks the Ganges veteran. Instead of chasing pigs, chase a girl in a well-greased wet-suit, suggests the piglet defender.

Square dance Hallowe'en Masquerade was held last Saturday in Mahon Hall. Costumes were widely varied. Mrs. Helen Reid looked very sweet in a beautifully handmade nightie and bonnet, which was over 100 years old. Prizes were awarded for the two most original costumes. Joyce Morrow as a Yellow Pussy Cat and Carl Johnson as Baby Face. Don Cunningham, dressed as Nero, arrived too late for the judging.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

A warm welcome to our bevy of European travellers who returned last week by jet from England after seven weeks away in Great Britain. Mrs. H. Ashby, Mrs. I. Divine and Mrs. Cartwright; Mrs. Irene Hawthorn and Mrs. T. Sharland; Mr. and Mrs. M. Atkins travelled their separate ways overseas but all evidently enjoyed the trip.

Returning from a hunting trip last week were Allan Gear, Pat Lee and Les Fraser. Didn't have any luck but got lots of fresh air.

A no-host dinner party was held at the White Elephant Cafe in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Abbott from Surrey, England, who have been visiting old friends on the island for the past 10 days. A toast to Mr. and Mrs. Abbott was proposed by Mr. L. Mouat and a corsage was presented to Mrs. Abbott by Mrs. John Foubister. Guests present were Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Gear, Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Foubister, Mr. and Mrs. L. Mouat, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Mouat, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wagg, Mrs. Gavin Mouat, Mrs. W.H. Bradley and Mrs. Joyce Parsons.

Salt Spring hunters who returned Saturday from a week's hunting trip in Drumheller, Alberta, were W.A. Trelford, Wayne Bradley and Steve Wawyrk. They returned with 32 birds, consisting of ducks, Hungarian partridges and prairie chickens. Other hunters who travelled to Vanderhoof were Bernard Reynolds, Steve Lafortune Sr. and Steve Jr., who bagged a 500-lb. bull moose.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Tsawwassen and Motor Princess collided Saturday night as both ships were inbound to Swartz Bay. The Tsawwassen struck the Motor Princess on the starboard side.

The accident could have been a major disaster. It happened between Piers Island and the spar buoy. In the opinion of Capt. C.W. Crofts, who was in charge of the Motor Princess, it was a flagrant breach of the rules of the road appertaining to overtaking vessels.

Constable Harry Bonner, R.C.M.P., is again making his annual appeal to the youth of the island, requesting that they observe a safe and sane Hallowe'en night on Monday. "It is not our intention to be killjoys," said Constable Bonner. "However, we will not tolerate damage to property such as fences and road signs, nor will we allow barriers to be placed on the highways, as these constitute a traffic hazard."

The Salt Spring Island Lions Club celebrated its first birthday on Friday. A cocktail party was held first at the Legion Hall after which members and their guests adjourned to the downstairs hall of the United Church for a dinner meeting. President Hart Bradley reviewed the Lions' first year. Mrs. H.S. Noakes, honorary member, played the piano for a rousing sing-song. Peter Cartwright of Salt Spring was taken in as a new member. A young goat, Hilda, resplendent in pink net shawl and pink panties, was presented to Hart by Harold Hoffman, as a mascot for the club. Hart accepted with the proviso that Mr. Hoffman keep Hilda at her present home.

Prosecution certain

Anyone caught taking safety equipment from ferries is certain to be prosecuted, Ganges RCMP said this week.

Police have received reports recently of thefts of life-rings and other equipment.

John Wilson and David McNeill

Touch of New Zealand added to business life

A new accent has been added to the business life of Salt Spring Island. The accent hails from New Zealand and David B. McNeill is the accountant bringing the southern hemisphere to the Ganges office of Wilson, Hayes, Lloyd and Debeck.

The advent of McNeill is not the only change.

The Duncan-based accountants have taken over the long-established Marr Accounting in Ganges.

It hasn't been a big change. Just that something has been added. The New Zealand accountant is one addition and once a week John Wilson comes to Ganges to familiarize himself with the affairs of a smaller island.

Wilson has been in the B.C. business for nearly 20 years. He graduated from UBC in his native Vancouver, with a commerce degree and then became a chartered accountant. From Vancouver to Vancouver Island was a short hop and he has not looked back.

McNeill hails from the largest city in New Zealand and came to British Columbia several years ago on holiday. He liked it well and he had already enjoyed a considerable experience of world travel, so he decided to live here.

The Kiwi accountant was a chartered accountant in New Zealand and travelled around the world, finding employment in various cities to enable him to look closely at the places which had been only names.

He has lived in South Africa and England and he has visited many other countries.

It is David McNeill who comes to the Ganges office day by day.

But the change is minimal. Spencer and Isabel Marr and their staff are still holding the fort.

RECREATION REPORT

Complete facility is more cost efficient

From the Salt Spring Island Recreation Commission

Why a recreation centre?

The Recreation Commission unanimously voted to present a total use building to referendum rather than build one facility such as a swimming pool.

The question, "Why not just a pool?" has been raised often and deserves an answer.

The answer lies in the experience of other communities in B.C. where a one-shot facility usually proved so popular that some additions were made at higher costs and with improper planning. Thus, it is cost-efficient to offer a total facility, meeting the needs of passive and active recreation; physical and cultural; young and old.

And although the breakdown of costs shows the pool as $592,000 without the other parts, this cost would increase because of the need for corridors, admission control, change rooms, bathrooms, storage, maintenance area and office space.

Also, without increasing staff substantially, other activities such as racquet ball, squash and hand ball can provide needed revenue to help control the deficit the pool will accrue.

The commission feels a centre approach is the most effective way in which recreation can be offered to all age groups on the island.

The second consideration in the commission's thinking was the answer to the PERC study of questions, "How often do you travel off-island?" and "For what do you travel most?"

One third of the respondents went off-island five to 10 times a year, one third went off one to five times a year. One third went off swimming and one third went off for performing arts and indoor sports combined.

We believe our responsibility is for the total recreation-minded community, not only to the swimmers. We believe in offering varied leisure activities for all ages to take place on the island for the island population. We anticipate that the quality of life will be improved by the building of the recreation centre as the populace will be healthily engaged in a multitude of planned programs as well as having the opportunity to select activities at opportune times.

This proposed recreation facility will be for now and the future.

All will require permits

All commercial areas on Salt Spring will require a development permit when construction work is undertaken.

The proposal to bring all commercial lots under the same umbrella as the Ganges core area was opposed by Director Yvette Valcourt when it was examined in Ganges on Tuesday evening last week. Allan Hardie also expressed opposition.

A number expressed interest in the plan and one or two speakers supported the proposal.

Regional Director Yvette Valcourt charged that there was some discrimination in Ganges by granting privileges to one over another.

She then told the hearing that the development permit area in Ganges core countenances the expansion of the commercial area. In other commercial zones no expansion is permitted. This, she charged is discrimination.

Students question cost of sports

The question of local students paying for their transportation to go off-island and compete against other schools in sports activities was raised at last week's school board meeting in Ganges.

Two Gulf Islands Secondary students, Debbie Hogg and Loretta Dods, asked why students should be required to pay ferry fares.

The two were told that there is money budgeted by the board for such transportation costs.

Secretary-treasurer Wilf Peck said that the district provides a relatively large amount of money by comparison with other districts.

But, he added, the Gulf Islands district has a high need.

Chairman Ivan Mouat said the board increases the budget for students' transportation every year.

"But there is never enough money for the school to do all the travelling it wants to."

He suggested that the students take up the matter with the principal.

Loretta Dods pointed out that there was no competition for local teams if they didn't go off-island to play.

Trustee Strick Aust suggested that the board should take a close look at athletic programs in the schools, and their expenses.

He said more students are becoming actively involved in team activities. There is some concern about the lack of uniforms, he noted.

Break-ins

Turner's Store at Ganges was broken into last week when thieves gained access through a rear door in the building.

RCMP report that some jewellery, a blouse and an electric heater were stolen late Monday night.

The Salt Spring Golf Club was also broken into Sunday night or early Monday morning and golf equipment was taken, police said.

Wide-open Sundays proposed in coming shopping vote

Sunday and holiday shopping will be wide open if voters support the Holiday Shopping Bylaw on November 15.

The provincial legislation, the Holiday Shopping Regulation Act passes responsibility for firm decisions on to the municipality. In the case of the islands this municipality is the Capital Regional Board.

The Capital Regional Board last week decided not to close islands stores on Sundays. Had no bylaw been presented, Sunday and holiday shopping would be limited to corner stores.

If voters approve the bylaw, all stores may operate, in future, on a seven-day shopping week. If voters refuse the bylaw, then all larger stores will be closed Sundays and holidays.

It will be one of three referendum votes on Salt Spring and Pender Islands. All islands will vote on it.

Charter president honoured

Hart Bradley, charter president of Salt Spring Island Lions Club, was presented with his 20-year pin on Thursday evening in the Harbour House Hotel.

Charter club member Bill Trelford made the presentation.

Bradley was also the first zone chairman to be named from the Salt Spring Island service club, recalled Trelford.

At the time of the charter of the club Bradley was owner of the bakery at Ganges and Trelford operated the Island Garage.

The first club president accepted the pin and explained he was leaving for the United States for the winter. He expects to be back in Ganges next spring.

No boats on lakes on island?

Islands Trust is always asking the government to protect water supplies, said Gordon Wallace at Salt Spring Island public hearings last week.

"We would be very remiss if we didn't take the steps open to us to do the same," he told his colleagues.

Restriction of boats on island lakes was under discussion.

Salt Spring Island Trust Committee is seeking authority to restrict the use of power boats on lakes from which domestic water is drawn.

It was noted that an earlier move in the same direction was unsuccessful because the enabling regulations under the Canada Shipping Act were not introduced until 1972.

New rate leaves area out

Bylaw that excludes the islands from paying a transit levy also sets out the price of buses. Cost is added to the electricity bill each month. The bylaw was passed last week in Victoria.

Capital Regional Board established the private residential rate of $1 per month. Every home in the district liable for the levy will contribute $12 a year towards the cost of buses.

The commercial levy has been raised. It is now 5.5% of the hydro bill. Board was told that the highest contribution would come from a concrete-gravel company at the rate of $825 per month.

Capital region is required to meet the deficit of Greater Victoria bus service amounting to $2,267,364.

Ends 18-month fight

Bylaw takes islands out of transit service area

Islands are out of the bus business.

"The Electoral Areas of Salt Spring Island and the Gulf Islands are exempt from this bylaw."

Section 2 of the Public transit Hydro Power Surcharge Bylaw, of the Capital Regional District, formally excludes the islands from the liability of paying for buses they cannot enjoy.

Section 4 of the same bylaw provides that the provisions of this bylaw are retroactive to April 1, 1980.

The bylaw was adopted at the board meeting in Victoria last week, marking the end of an 18-month fight to have the islands free of the cost of buses.

Transit Chairman Norma Sealey opposed the release of the islands, right to the end.

When the bylaw was introduced on Wednesday afternoon last week she told the board that she had protested the inclusion of the islands clause in the rates bylaw on the grounds that she could not, philosophically, support it.

"We have been dealing with it in yo-yo fashion," she complained, "depending on who happens to be sitting around the table at any one time."

QUESTION SETTLED

Chairman Jim Campbell, who has fought exclusion of the islands bitterly, told her that the bylaw could be altered or refused, but that the question had been settled at the board meeting when the majority accepted the Valcourt motion to exclude the islands from liability for transit while retaining them in the transit service area.

Harold Parrott was also reluctant to see it debated yet again.

Sealey moved an amendment to make two bylaws of the issue. Section 1 of the bylaw sets out the rates to be charged for transit. Section 2 refers only to the islands.

Her amendment was unsuccessful.

The bylaw was passed, with the committee chairman registering a negative vote.
