Less space between tomato plants increased yields

I suppose that most of us have had the experience of being the last to know, although we were the ones most directly affected. It happened to me again when I found my column missing from these pages last week.

My consternation was threefold: at my unaccustomed and entirely unwarranted fallibility, that my mind had joined the British Union of Minds (BUM's) without my knowledge or consent and that the weekend before last had been declared a statutory holiday for members of BUMs. Long familiar with the temporary, if frequent, absence of my mind for its "coffee breaks", it nevertheless came as a total surprise that it had taken the whole weekend off.

Not until last Wednesday, when a quick scan of the paper for my favourite feature failed to find any trace of it, did I discover my mistake.

There's no mistake this week, though, so let's talk tomatoes.

Territorial Seeds had sent us some seed for trial this year, among them "Kootenai", "Oregon" and "Sprinter," the latter a sauce tomato. The only beef we have with these tomatoes is that they are a bit smaller than we would like them to be.

All of them are extremely prolific, and at present we are literally inundated with vine-ripened tomatoes, although we have only about a dozen plants. The sauce tomato proved surprisingly and deliciously sweet, the earliest to ripen, even after the late start caused by our prolonged spring.

The end of July appearance of the first, ripe tomatoes, firm, fleshy and exquisitely sweet, was therefore more than joyfully greeted and it initiated a ripe tomato binge that has not abated yet. The fruit is about two inches (five cm) in diameter, more than plentiful, on a three-foot (one-metre) diameter plant which tends to sprawl and should be staked, although it is described as a non-staking variety. Next year we will grow it in wire cages, as all the others.

BEAUTIFUL SHRUB

"Kootenai" has about the prettiest, thick and dark green leaves of any tomato plant I have yet

Farming and Gardening

BY PETER WEIS

seen, and the whole plant is so pretty that it would not be out of place even in a flower garden. It is also very dense and compact, a rather beautiful shrub of about three feet in diameter, with an abundance of two to three-inch (five to seven cm) diameter fruit, round, red, crack-resistant and delicious.

"Oregon", a new OSU development, ripens about three weeks earlier than "Kootenai", on three-foot diameter, determinate shrubs, which nevertheless do better in cages than unstaked as recommended. Fruit is plentiful, about two inches in diameter, of excellent flavour albeit with a slight tendency to crack, and the shrub is about three feet tall and wide. The compact habit of all three of these tomatoes makes it easy to provide clear, plastic slip covers, especially over simple wire cages, to take the tomato-shrivelling nip out of our cool, pacific nights.

We are growing them among occasionally sheared weeds, save for the clean space within the cages, for several reasons that have become deeply held convictions, and with a stand of broad-leaf parsley between each cage.

INCREASED YIELDS

The September issue of Organic Gardening carries an item which may prove of interest to all tomato lovers, and especially for those who grow tomatoes commercially. Researchers at Pennsylvania State University have demonstrated that tomato yields increased by 41% when grown 18 inches apart instead of the customary 36 inches, and yields increased by 71% when tomatoes were grown in double rows with equally close spacings. A 71% increase in yield combined with a simultaneous reduction of growing area by fully one-half amounts to such an enormous reduction of absolutely all costs of production that we simply cannot afford to overlook it.

It is also an indication of the quiet revolution that questions all of our accepted and traditional methods, and I suspect, rather I know, that there is a lot more to come.

Welcome Wagon proposed here

New residents to Salt Spring Island will be able to look forward to a welcoming party if local merchants show their support for Welcome Wagon here.

Barbara Narver, Vancouver Island area manager for Welcome Wagon Ltd., was on Salt Spring Island last Thursday to discuss the program with members of the business community. She was here at the invitation of Marion Marks who, if there is sufficient response to the proposal, will become the island's Welcome Wagon hostess.

Narver explained in an interview that Welcome Wagon was founded in Vancouver 54 years ago and has been operating on Vancouver Island for 47 years. Its purpose, she said, is to help new people get acquainted with an area as quickly as possible.

The hostess spends 30 minutes to an hour in the home of newcomers to an area. On Salt Spring Island she would present them with letters of welcome from the regional director, the Islands Trust, the member of parliament, the provincial member, and the presidents of the chamber of commerce and Ganges Centre Association.

The new residents are provided information about the community, concerning topics such as churches, schools, recreational facilities and others. The hostess then goes on to present information about local businesses, spending a few minutes telling the new people about each participating store and giving them a gift from each one.

She also presents them with an invitation from each store to come in and receive another gift.

Narver said the program requires at least 10 sponsors who pay a set fee for every visit made by the hostess. She used Port McNeill on northern Vancouver Island as an example, as the program has just been initiated there. The community is smaller than Salt Spring and Welcome Wagon has 22 sponsoring businesses.

The program, she continued, will encourage people to shop at home instead of going off-island.

"If we reach new people at an early stage, they will find the island can meet most of their buying needs."

If Welcome Wagon goes ahead here, new residents will not be the only beneficiaries. The hostess will also provide a welcome to new babies. In larger communities, such as Victoria, Welcome Wagon offers a bridal program and welcomes new students to university campuses.

The Welcome Wagon will go ahead if the reception is good. Chamber president Dale Codd expressed enthusiasm for the idea, as did Dave Mathews of the Ganges Centre Association.

GALIANO NEWS

16 attend annual meeting of planning commission

BY KATHLYN BENDER

The annual meeting of the Galiano Island Advisory Planning Commission drew 16 people to the Community Hall last Wednesday. Elizabeth Oesko, chairman of the commission, presided.

There was a brief report on the work of the commission. Andrew Loveridge expressed doubts about its usefulness since its advice could be disregarded by the Islands Trust. Pat Weaver suggested that the poor turnout indicated either that the public was satisfied with the operation of the Advisory Planning Commission, or else that it was indifferent to its existence. Bob Knowles and Elizabeth Oesko defended the work and value of the commission to the community in attempting to maintain the integrity of the Galiano community plan.

There was criticism of the very slow progress being made on the long overdue review of the plan, which is now in its 15th year without any major revision. There was also comment that the meetings of the Galiano commission, unlike those of most other designated islands, were never public. The chairman invited any members of the public who wished to bring any matter to the attention of the commission to contact her or the secretary, Dianne Cragg, in order that an invitation to a meeting could be extended.

The commission consists of five members and in addition the two Island Trustees are members ex officio. Members are normally elected for two-year terms, alternating three in even years and two in odd years. This year there was also an election to fill a vacancy caused by a resignation, this being a one-year term.

Re-elected to two-year terms were Bob Knowles, George Tully and Pat Weaver. Jim Scoones was elected to the one-year term.

Trails

The Islands Trust Committee recently received a report on trails in the Trust area from manager Tony Roberts, who also recommended that each of the 13 designated islands prepare a trail development program and that the Advisory Planning Commissions and any interested parties be invited to participate.

So far there has been no official initiative on Galiano but much private activity. Joe Fleming has cleared trails in Bluff Park and adjoining crown land. The Galiano Club commissioned Shane Blackwood to create a trail from Bluff Road down to the beach on Georgeson Bay, and Dennis Oldroyd has constructed a short trail from the park entrance to the top of the bluff. Gill Allen of Madrona Lodge compiled a booklet describing walking trails in the northern part of Galiano. Andrew Loveridge spent much time and a great deal of red paint blazing trails in the south part of the island during the past summer.

A remarkably fine trail was constructed earlier this year by Steve Oesko of Bodega Resort. This is a ridge walk along the south-facing flank of Bodega Hill. The trail, which is clearly marked with yellow surveyors' tape, begins at the office chalet at Bodega Resort. It first crosses the farm section of the resort where there is a new barn and cottage.

After passing through a gate the trail bears left and crosses a beautiful artificial lake by means of a plank bridge built on a massive cedar trunk felled for the purpose. Skirting the lake the route briefly follows a logging road, through another gate to a small clearing, possibly once a yarding area as four logging roads meet here. Walkers should search for yellow ribbon on the right side and follow a footpath steeply upward through salal and oregon grape.

After a few hundred yards this comes out on top of the pallisade which forms the flank of Bodega Hill. The view of Trincomali Channel is spectacular. Wallace, the Secretaries, Kuper, Thetis, Valdez, Gabriola and many smaller islands are spread far below. Beyond lies Salt Spring and Vancouver Island with many familiar landmarks such as Fernwood, Crofton and Ladysmith.

At times there is an almost vertical drop of 100 feet or more on the right of the trail which skirts the edge of the bluff for more than five kilometres. This terrain is the natural habitat of the hairy manzanita, a shrubby relation of the arbutus which it resembles in many ways. Almost invariably a soaring eagle patrols the ridge using the rising air current to perfection. Grouse and a night hawk may make off noisily if disturbed.

After about six kilometres the hiker may choose to return to Bodega Resort back along the ridge trail or if he continues for another kilometre he will arrive at the top of Cottage Way which winds down to Porlier Pass Road, along which he can return to his starting point.

Steve must have done a lot of hard work with chain saw, machete and spade to carve out this trail and he deserves commendation and thanks for his effort.

Home nursing

The rudiments of home nursing to enable one to restore oneself or another member of the family to full health after an illness or accident is useful knowledge for any islander to have. Those interested in acquiring such information should contact Helen Ann Coe, at 539-2824.

Helen, who is a fully qualified, very experienced nurse, is prepared to help Galiano residents by teaching a four-lesson course in home nursing geared to the specific needs of those attending the classes.

Peace Caravan

The Peace Petition Caravan, carrying over 50,000 signatures, of which 400 are from Galiano, is due to leave Victoria on September 29 and deserves a rousing send-off from all Gulf Islanders. Any islander is invited to join in the send-off, headed by the mayor of Victoria, from the Parliament Building.

This will be followed by a potluck supper and a dance to music by Galiano's Brad Prevodoros. Those who need a ride or an overnight billet should phone Bill Paterson at 2475.

Pre-school

This year an expanded program is available to Galiano children between the ages of two and five. Pre-schoolers from age three to kindergarten may take part in a two or three-day program on Monday and Friday mornings and Wednesday afternoon. Tiny tots aged two and three may come on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. All classes will be held in the new Sunday School opposite the church on Burrill Road beside Sally Riddell's.

This year's teacher, Judi Wilson, has eight years' experience of kindergarten and play-schools with particular interest in speech and hearing therapy, arts and crafts, and outdoor activities. Above all Judi is enthusiastic, owns property here and hopes to become a permanent resident.

Further information may be obtained from Melanie Seed at 2748, Christine Axmann at 5338 or Judi herself at 5653. Judi will also have an information booth at next Friday's market between 10 and noon at the Community Hall.

Marathon of Hope

A crisp sunny morning was perfect weather Sunday for the Galiano Marathon of Hope. First at the finishing line was Simon Truelove followed closely by John Edwards, Kevin Noble and Bob Gilson. Next came Chris Walker on his bicycle with Nathan Gaylor and Adam Kingscote on foot.

Our thanks to all those taking part—may we have even more next year, for this most deserving cause, the Cancer Fund.

Coming Events

On Sunday Dr. George Tuttle.

Changes to planning procedures concern region too

Capital Regional Board is the second local administration to express concern over the elimination of the community plan from provincial planning procedures.

Two weeks ago the board endorsed the stand already taken by the Islands Trust. Directors also agreed that the matter would be examined at the meeting of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

In May the minister of municipal affairs, Bill Ritchie, announced that when considering applications for bare land strata developments the approving officer will not be guided by community plans. He also hinted that the same procedure is to be adopted in all areas of planning.

Local concerns for land use regulation will be observed only by following zoning bylaws and subdivision bylaws.

When the Capital Regional Board examined the minister's rejection of community plans it was following the recommendation of its planning and zoning committee. The committee called the attention of the board to the manner in which community plans are prepared. They are developed, said the committee report, at great expense and with considerable community involvement.

"Plans often provide much more direction to the approving officer than the zoning or subdivision bylaw," ran the report, "and are often more reflective of the community's aspirations."

DISMAY

The Trust had expressed dismay at the policy of the government in regard to planning.

Chairman Mike Humphries had told the Trust council, "During the past four months the provincial government has set back local planning by a decade."

The Trust was discussing not only the new ministerial instructions regarding approval of development plans. Ministerial rejection of plans, bylaws and amendments had recently been attributed to the trespassing of the Trust into policy areas. The Lasqueti Island community plan was rejected by the minister on the grounds that policies set out to preserve and protect the environment were inappropriate because they addressed such issues as Crown land and forestry.

The Trust had called on the minister to reconsider these measures.

"An intact community planning process is a vital and healthy function of community government," Humphries told the Trust. "If the government proceeds, the official community plans will be rendered meaningless and local autonomy will have lost its strongest guiding light."

Dog owners warned by police

Dogs on Salt Spring should be under control at all times, warn Ganges detachment RCMP.

The warning comes about as a result of two incidents recently where children have been bitten by dogs running loose.

The Capital Region dog bylaw prohibits an owner from allowing a dog to run loose. The bylaw also notes that "a dog known to...attack or viciously pursue a person" should be confined in a building or a secure enclosure.

Violation of the dog bylaw carries a penalty, upon conviction, of a fine of not less than $50 or more than $100 for the first offence. The second conviction under the bylaw carries a possible fine of $100 or not more than $1,000.

The dog can also be destroyed.

SATURNA SCENE

BY PRISCILLA JANSZEN

What's new? The rain, the prime minister, absence of tourists and school kids.

Yes, yes, we needed the rain for pasture and gardens and water systems but not for a change of pace. My gumboots were barely dusty and I felt sulky, holding my shorts fresh out of the wash, considering if it was worth putting them back on the shelf or if they should go back into storage.

The roads seem deserted, not only are there no unfamiliar cars but no familiar ones either. The kids are back in school, no doubt enjoying that first glorious week of newness—clothes, books, grade, how will we fit back together, pencils with erasers.

Last Saturday night there was another baseball dance—another success. The parents group had the liquor licence proceeds and the men's and women's baseball teams split the rest of the money. The dance was a good ending to a congenial summer.

Marjorie Ratzlaff was this Anglican parish's representative to help elect the new bishop. She found attending the synod most interesting and the person she felt most qualified is the new bishop. Steven Lawson is sporting a new hat—not one of his father's many baseball hats. Steven got hit in the head and has a severe cut requiring many stitches and a cast arrangement. We hope his beauty is not marred and that Polly Haworth's haircut grows out nicely!

William Sims suffered a stroke and died on Saturna earlier this month. He and his son Bill had brought their boat over from Vancouver, their wives were planning to come the next day on the ferry. Father and son were walking up the hill from shell beach when Mr. Sims suffered a stroke. Bill called for help and assistant lighthouse keeper Tree Johnson heard and ran over.

Tree started cardiopulmonary resuscitation when needed and Doris Ackerman, Juanita Hutton-

Potts and Paul and Bernadette spelled each other off. Hazel Trickey and Dr. Chase arrived later. They were unable to revive him.

I recount this story in detail because many people responded quickly and with skill and compassion. Young Bill Sims spent the night with Tree and Star's family. Everyone was deeply touched by the tragedy. It is gratifying to know that so many people responded so quickly and have taken the time to train themselves so they can give competent assistance.

Marie McMahon a special person to Saturna

BY PRISCILLA JANSZEN

A special person to many island people, Granmarie McMahon of Saturna Island died last week.

For 1½ years she had been going into Victoria three days a week for dialysis treatment. The week before she died she suffered a stroke.

Those are the final medical details of a woman whose life was rich and full. Marie came to the island with her family in 1945 to visit her friends, the Moneys. They continued to visit until they retired here in 1963 to their home in Lyall Harbour.

Marie's son John, daughter-in-law Barbara, Todd and Johnnie Scott and niece Sandy O'Bade frequently stayed with her. For the last two years her grandsons have come and lived with her in the summer.

When I asked islanders how they felt about Marie, what was special about her, the response was strong and heartfelt. Here are some of their comments.

Said Lou Money:

"I knew her since I was 19. We were telephone operators together in Vancouver. She was popular with people, boys and girls both. She loved a get-together, she was a lot of fun and everyone liked her. What can I say, she was my very good friend. Not many friendships last through the years and this one did.

"She had a sense of humour, that's what keeps people going through life, isn't it? She was very interested in people, what they were doing mattered to her. She was an open and outgoing and loving person. Her family was important, she liked having them around her.

"I never had a sister, but she was a sister to me. She was kind. She had good values instead of opinions. She hated unkindness. She never aged in the sense of changing. I don't think Marie would like to hear anything flowery. She was my friend and we had a lot of fun together. Granmarie? I think Sam Crooks named her to keep the grandmothers straight."

Lorraine Campbell: "Marie was a great person, a fun person, a person with a sense of humour. I don't think in all the years I ever saw Marie angry. Doing anything with her was a joy—it couldn't be dull and solemn with Marie about. She was always involved in community affairs, kind of in the background, never president of anything but always supportive. She loved kids. She was grandmother to all the kids in Lyall Harbour. She was always interested in the school kids."

Betty Carpentier: "Always a sense of humour, a strong loving woman. To her, her family, loving her children, and being fair was important. Sunday, before she died, I poked my nose past her hospital door, and her greeting was, 'What took you so long?' I took care of her a lot this last year. Even when she felt down it wasn't anything that would carry over to another person.

"She talked to me about how good John had been to her. She lived her years and had time for everyone. I think her strength came because she liked herself and respected herself. She was so so gay. She gave me strength."

Laura Coombs: "Always ready to give a hand. She was a good neighbour and a good friend. Always a cheery greeting. She was a down-to-earth person, didn't matter who you were, she took a genuine interest. I couldn't say enough good things about her. I find it hard to say what I want to say. She's an important part of my life.

"I always remember her out walking, singing. I'd be in my kitchen, and we'd have our little chat. Always a good word for the kids. Always a little joke. When I went to visit I felt most welcome. Granmarie? Well, she was a grandmotherly type, kids loved her, guess it just spilled over."

Gloria Silverburg: "She cracked open the pub door to see if Betty was ready to take her in for her dialysis. I asked, 'When will you be back Marie?'" "Well, I hope we don't make it till the night boat, so Betty and I can stop off and see the male strippers."

"That was Marie to me, off for a painful stay in Victoria and she leaves the whole pub laughing."

Polly Haworth: "She was the most wonderful neighbour I ever had. We had a lot of fun together. She never took herself seriously, she saw the lighter side but had lots of depth! Marie was a kind, kind person, warm and real and young always."

Gloria Manzano: "Marie was bubbly and cheerful. She created a good rapport, people felt comfortable with her. Granmarie had the knack of being able to tell a naughty joke and get away with it."

Granmarie gave much in her life to her friends and family. They obviously loved her dearly in return.

LEGION NEWS

BY BETTY GALT

The new fall season is upon us, and is turning into a busy one at the Salt Spring Legion. Most members will find something for their enjoyment, come on in and check out the action.

The September meeting saw our new president, Arthur Gale, installed, and his first duty was to present the past president's medal to Jake Javorski.

The poppy campaign committee is taking shape, supplies are in and members are urged to help with this worthwhile project.

The Ladies' Auxiliary is pleased that Angie Matthews and Gordon Hitchcock are the recipients of their bursaries. The high school bursary will be named the Marilyn Ryles Memorial Bursary, in honour of Marilyn's dedication to the auxiliary.

Auxiliary general meeting is on October 9 at 8 pm.

Branch 92 is pleased that Heather Rooke was the winner of its scholarship. Heather is enrolled at Simon Fraser University.

Crib starts October 4 at 8 pm and bridge will start Saturday, Oct. 13, 1:30-4:30 pm.

Ex-service members may be interested in knowing that they are eligible for Canex (Base Exchange) at the Naden Retail Store.

Next general meeting is October 1 at 8 pm.

Classrooms nearly ready

Work on two classrooms at Salt Spring Elementary School is nearing completion and they should be ready for use by the end of September.

The two rooms had been afflicted with dry rot and had to be rebuilt from the foundation up. Estimated cost of repairs will run close to $50,000 according to Ron McQuiggan, school trustee for Salt Spring Island.

The dry rot developed when the walls became soaked with sewage which would back up into the rooms when heavy rains fell. The problem has been developing for a number of years.

Repairs were delayed when shipment of doors was held up.

Local musicians to perform

Local musicians will be on stage Friday evening when the Salt Spring Concert Society stages a variety concert at Mahon Hall.

Performers will include Peter Taschuk, guitar; Dwaine Prosk, flute; Gary Lundy, piano; Kirsten Maddison, violin; Chris Kodaly, piano; Jean Knight, violin; John Guerin, piano; and Pat Duke, piano. They will play either as soloists or combine their talents in duets and trios.

In addition, Joy Johnsen will direct the Salt Spring Singers. Dwaine Prosk will lead the SOCIETY Singers and the audience will hear the Salt Spring Island Early Music Consort with Carol Young, Lynne Quinn and Joan Stacey.

Two newcomers to this year's concert are violinists Kirsten Maddison, an honour student of Jean Knight, and pianist Chris Kodaly, a graduate from the Toronto Conservatory, who recently moved to Salt Spring from Mayne Island.

Down Through the Years with Driftwood

Twenty Years Ago

Fulford Hall on Salt Spring bloomed with blossoms when the Chrysanthemum and Garden Club held its annual fall show. Dr. R. W. Bradley took the Scott and Peden trophy for best chrysanthemum blooms. Terry Anderson and Geoffrey Lacy won the special prizes for children's floral arrangements. Joseph Wallis had the grand aggregate points for the section.

The Salties of Salt Spring swept both ends of a double-header against a Victoria softball team. The Salties came out ahead 10-1 and 7-2.

The two visitors from Surrey, W. R. Bates and Keith Bates, landed 13 cutthroat trout in St. Mary Lake on Salt Spring. The fish weighed about three pounds each and Driftwood staffer Bruce Fiander attested to the large number of fish in the lake.

The Victoria Power Squadron paid a visit to Grace Gillson at Solimar in Fulford for a barbecue and an afternoon of fun and frolic. Later that day, friends of Vi Grant showed up to hold a farewell party for her. She was moving from Salt Spring to live near Sidney.

The Women's Institute held a meeting at the home of Mrs. R. Lee. Bea Hamilton was selected as delegate to the W. I. Conference to be held in October at Lakehill. V. Salliss and Mrs. E. Anderson would also be going to the conference.

The First Ganges Boy Scouts spent four days camping at Lakeridge. Leaders Don Lawley and Gene Askeland helped the boys further their knowledge of scouting and the troop thanked host Ernie Lowe for the use of Lakeridge for the event.

The hunting trip to Vancouver Island was successful for Des Crofton of Ganges. He bagged a bull elk near Victoria Peak. The hunters flew into the site by helicopter from Campbell River.

A car wash would be the first activity of the fall season for the members of the Canadian Girls in Training. They would be outside the United Church Hall from 10 am until 4 pm on Saturday. The girls meet each Friday after school and membership is open to any girl over 12 years of age.

Fifteen years ago

The volunteers of the Saturna fire department donated the money paid to them for their efforts to a fund to purchase needed firefighting equipment. A committee with James Money as chairman, Myrt Maskow as secretary and Donna Began would take care of the money. To raise more money they would be holding a dance at which Davina Vincent would supply the music.

The bee hives were on the mountain near Musgrave on Salt Spring and somebody shot them three times with a .22. The owner of the hives, Andrew Eburne of Victoria was upset at having to make the needed repairs but the bees merely dropped the slugs out the front door of the hives.

The boy scouts came to Galiano for a camp-out. There were 500 scouts and 100 leaders. Donald New, the honorary camp chief, organized a fleet of cars to take the visitors from Sturdies Bay to the campsite at Montague Harbour. They came from B.C. and from Washington State. Tom Carolan of the Galiano Club helped plan the event and Sunday service was conducted by Rev. Kevin Wiseman who came from Victoria for the occasion.

The Rotary Club on Salt Spring held its charter night and president Bob Blundell accepted the charter from district-governor Craig Reid. Other members of the executive were Gordon Matthews as secretary and Spencer Marr as treasurer. The directors would be Ken Whyte, T. Agar and Phil Valcourt.

The group of animals seemed to get along. Evelyn Mussick of Mayne Island saw three cats, two dogs and a yearling deer playing together. "Not all dogs chase deer," she said.

Ten years ago

The roads foreman for the department of highways on Mayne Island was retiring. Fred Bennett would end 45 years of service with the highways crew at the end of the month. Fred Hansen was in charge of planning for the party to be held at the Agricultural Hall to honour both Bennett and his wife Margaret.

Golfers at the Salt Spring Golf Club had been thinned down to four players for the Crofton Cup. Toby Seward, Larry Davies, Dave Niset and Mac Mouat would play to determine a club champion.

Papajohn reported from Saturna that 53 members of the Ladysmith Senior Citizens Society came to the island for a day trip. Lunch was served in the hall by the Women's Club and the group was shown various parts of the island by John Bentum as well as Taimi and Bob Hindmarch.

Residents of Galiano were reminded to slow down in the school zone. Drivers had become used to driving at speed past the school during the summer and Mary Backlund reminded them to watch for children in the area.

Pender Legion president Ron Jackson greeted visitors from Branch 84 to the island. Trophies were given to the winners of the Legion field day. Renee Bellemare was the top girl while Troy Hanson and Danny Pelkey shared the boy's trophy.

Members of the congregation of St. Mary Magdalene Church on Mayne Island met their new pastor, Rev. James Daniels. The reception was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon MacKenzie. Rector's warden Don Vigurs and people's warden Alfred Sutton were also on hand to help out.

The soccer association on Salt Spring had $438.98 in the bank. The group had revenues of $1,866.50 during the season against expenditures of $1,583.56.

Five years ago

B. C. Ferries announced plans to expand the facilities at Village Bay on Mayne Island. Bill Bouchard of the ferry company said that a new berth which could handle a large vessel would be put in place beside the smaller berth there. The parking and shore facilities would also be improved, he said. No price tag was attached to the planned work.

Driftwood was second in its class in the better newspapers competition in British Columbia and the Yukon. The Grand Forks Gazette was first.

The Gulf Islands Pioneer Village Society had a surplus which would be used for work to be done on the driveway and paths. The financial position was very sound, said society president Fred Brookbanks. He told a meeting of the group that Harry Coffey was taking care of the garden. Bob Nicholson, Jack Tomlinson and Jan Harkema were elected to sit on the board of directors.

The quilt had been on display at Artercraft 79 for the summer and a raffle was held to raise money for the Salt Spring library. Muriel Hall of Richmond held the winning ticket. The quilt had been made by a 15-woman team headed by Jocelyn Holmes. The raffle netted $1,000 for the library.

The Gulf Islands School Board decided to take responsibility for the transportation of school children between islands. School trustee Charles Baltzer of Salt Spring had prepared a lengthy report on the subject and the policy will go into effect if the ministry of education shares some of the costs.

The proposed airport on Mayne Island met with disapproval from the Islands Trust. That group would advise the Agricultural Land Commission not to approve a transfer of the land from the agricultural reserve.

Ex-island doctor to visit for reunion

A retired physician now living in Vancouver will be among the visitors at the Lady Minto Hospital reunion Friday at Ganges.

The affair takes place at the old hospital building, now the Community Centre, on Ganges Hill from 3-5 pm.

The visiting physician will be Dr. R.D. Rush, who served Salt Spring Island as a doctor from 1930 until 1942.

Business seminar to be held here next month

A seminar for local business people will be held at Ganges October 24.

The executive of the Salt Spring Chamber of Commerce agreed at its monthly meeting last Wednesday to co-sponsor the seminar with Gulf Islands Driftwood.

The seminar will be given by Bill Gibson of Newport Marketing and Communications Ltd. of Victoria. Part of the expenses will be covered by a $10 admission fee and the remainder will be picked up by the chamber and Driftwood.

Lower hall of the Ganges United Church has been booked for the occasion. Further information will be published in the next two weeks.

In other business, the chamber agreed to act on a proposal by Arvid Chalmers to have the speed limit enforced at the foot of Ganges Hill. Chalmers told the meeting that a lot of vehicles tend to accelerate hard when they round the bend in front of Heritage Boutique and have reached 50 mph by the time they pass Embe Bakery.

He wondered if speed bumps could be placed on the road to solve the problem. The chamber decided to get in touch with the Ganges RCMP detachment on the matter.

Chalmers also proposed that the chamber investigate having the island's postal addresses changed to Salt Spring Island rather than Fulford and Ganges.

In a brief discussion of the Centennial Park issue, president Dale Codd said the chamber would be meeting with regional district officials now that the province has assigned the lease to the Capital Region.

Full of beans

Annual Bean Supper was held at Beaver Point Hall last Saturday. There were two sittings and organizers were kept busy serving beans, salad and buns with a variety of homemade pies for dessert. Above, behind-the-scenes worker Gwen Ruckle does kitchen duty while Christine Donnelly, above right, attacks the mountain of dishes that come with such an event. At right, a rare opportunity for restaurateurs Tamar De Vane and David Peek of Nan's to go out for dinner.

Drivers charged

The spot checks on Salt Spring Island will continue, said a spokesman for RCMP.

Last week four drivers were charged with driving while their ability was impaired. Two of those drivers charged will also face an additional charge for refusing to take the breath analysis test.

The RCMP action is an extension of the CounterAttack program aimed at reducing the number of drinking drivers on the road, said the spokesman.
