

Secondary School bands set concert

The Gulf Islands Secondary School Gold and Stage Bands are planning a concert in Centennial Park on Friday, May 15, from 1:30 pm to 2:30 pm (weather permitting).

The Gold Band is a concert band made up of more advanced students in Grades Nine through 12. The Stage Band is a smaller jazz/rock group comprised mainly of Grade 12 students. Both bands are under the direction of Dwaine A. Prosk.

Island student's work accepted for exhibition

A young Salt Spring Island resident's artwork has been accepted for inclusion in a province-wide exhibition.

Kirstie Chalmers, 10, was one of 141 entrants whose work has been selected for the B. C. Young Artists' Exhibition, sponsored every two years by the Emily Carr School of Fine Arts.

Over 2,600 entries were submitted for consideration for the exhibition, which will open at the Vancouver Art Gallery on September 13 and later tour 21 B. C. centres, including Victoria.

Chalmers, who studies art at the Salt Spring Centre School, was one of several local students who applied for inclusion in the exhibition and the only one whose entry was accepted. Salt Spring Centre School principal Usha Rautenbach said her pupil's success should encourage others to continue submitting their works.

Chalmers is the second Salt Spring resident in two years to have works included in the exhibition. In 1985, Uma Emery was a successful applicant whose entry later toured the world and is now on permanent display in Norway. Emery, now a Salt Spring Elementary School student, also studied at the Salt Spring Centre School.

'Oracle' workshop slated

An oracle will visit Off Centre Stage for a two-day workshop on May 23 and 24.

Lasqueti Island resident Rosalie Miles will lead the workshop, using a tool of divination she synthesized from the I Ching and astrology.

Miles will also talk about the underlying patterns intrinsic to Being as an introduction to casting and interpreting the oracle.

On Sunday, workshop participants will "play the game of change."

Cost of both days of the workshop is $15. For further information, and to pre-register, call Off Centre Stage at 537-5211.

Guild show set for Mahon Hall

Local residents and visitors to Salt Spring can take in the eighth annual Salt Spring Painters' Guild spring show this weekend in Mahon Hall.

The show, scheduled for May 16 to 18, will feature works created by guild members. This is not a juried event, and beginning artists are encouraged to display their efforts.

Art completed by guild members will be available for sale at the show. Although the guild considers this weekend's show and sale to be one of its major fund-raisers, president Bev Peden noted it is designed primarily to give local artists and their work some exposure on the island.

Dozens of paintings and other works will be on display. In addition to these pieces, others have been donated specifically for the show. Local artist Brien Foerster, for example, has given one of his prints to the guild and it is being offered as a raffle prize.

Peden says money raised through this weekend's show will be used by the guild to offer additional workshops and art-related programs here.

The Salt Spring Island Painters' Guild meets each week in Mahon Hall. Membership in the organization costs $5.

New comet to light up night skies

By ANDREW GIBSON

Astronomically speaking, we haven't had much luck in the northern hemisphere lately. The Halley's Comet of 1985 was hardly the show-stopper that Harold of England saw in 1066. Indeed, since binoculars hadn't been invented, he wouldn't have seen it at all, wouldn't have got bad vibes from it, and might have felt up enough for the Battle of Hastings that he'd have won it, and history would be quite different.

Comet Kohoutek, of a few years ago, also got a big billing but turned out, like Halley's, to be no more than a small fuzzy patch. And, worst of all, we in the north have missed out on the most exciting astronomical event of the decade — the Magellanic Cloud supernova, in a small southern galaxy some 100,000 light years away. It is so bright that it is visible to the naked eye, its catastrophic explosion outshining all of the rest of the billion-star galaxy. But this rare event, seen only every few centuries in our own galaxy, and in others only by astronomers, is hidden from our latitude.

The same bad luck extends to the newest comet to zero in on our sun — comet Wilson, named after its discoverer, Christine Wilson, a Cal Tech student. It has spent almost all of its time down south, too, and will be fading quickly before it reaches far enough north for us to get a glimpse of it. At the end of May and the beginning of June there may be a chance of seeing it low in the southwest after sunset, but high ground, good binoculars, a very clear sky and lots of patience will be needed. It also will only be a fuzzy patch, but for star-gazers it's still a thrill.

Our northern luck has to change. Maybe next week, or next month, there'll be another comet or supernova best seen by the lucky people in the Gulf Islands.

John Nolan as Clarence Darrow

Life of acclaimed lawyer coming to Salt Spring stage

John Nolan's portrayal of Clarence Darrow, the famed American lawyer, is coming to Salt Spring Island in mid-May.

Nolan, a Nanaimo resident, will perform the work at Off Centre Stage on Friday, May 15, and Saturday, May 16. Show time is 8 pm each night.

Tickets for the play are available at et cetera or the door, or by calling Off Centre Stage (537-5211).

The two-hour, one-man show has been compared favourably with Hal Holbrook's Mark Train Monologues and has won awards for its set and lighting design.

The play, written by David Rintel, is based on Darrow's legal career, which spanned 50 years. Darrow was a successful defence attorney who worked to change the social injustices of his time — he defended trade unionists for 17 years, for instance, and through his efforts brought about improved working conditions, including the eight-hour working day and child labour laws.

During his career, Darrow also defended 102 men accused of murder and none received the death penalty — which the lawyer opposed. He was also the first lawyer to use mental illness (not insanity) as a legal defence, and to effectively use plea bargaining as a defence tool.

Darrow was also known for his defence of freedom of speech, liberty and freedom itself. For instance, his career saw him consistently act for Negroes facing the prejudices of society.

Another hallmark of Darrow's career was his ability to reduce complex legal arguments into easily-understood terms.

Off Centre Stage sets schedule for May acts

- Friday, May 22: To A Modern Venus, Angela Brown's multi-disciplinary show depicting women in the 20th Century. Show time 8 pm.
- Saturday, May 23: Oracle Workshop with Rosalie Miles, 10 am to 5 pm. To A Modern Venus, same as above.
- Sunday, May 24: Oracle Workshop with Rosalie Miles, second day of two day workshop, 10 am to 2 pm.

Beaver Point artworks to be exhibited

The Beaver Point Hall will feature an exhibition by four south Salt Spring Island artists this weekend.

Entitled Break Through, the May 15-18 event will include a display of fine art by Anne Goodall-Prosk, Paul Hart, Robert Rustad and Ian Thomas. Sculpture, photography and painting by these artists will be available for viewing throughout the weekend.

The exhibition opens Friday (May 15) at 7 pm. On Saturday and Sunday, the public is welcome to view the work between 1 pm and 9 pm. The exhibition continues Monday between 1 pm and 5 pm.

Rustad, one of the exhibition's organizers, stressed that this weekend's event is not commercially-oriented. Any donations made by the public will be turned over to the Beaver Point Hall committee.

"This is not a crafts fair," he stressed. "This is not an event that will earn us any money. We just want to show people what we've been doing."

Rustad said it is hoped Break Through will become an annual exhibition of local fine art. Artists living throughout the area will be encouraged to participate in future years, he added.

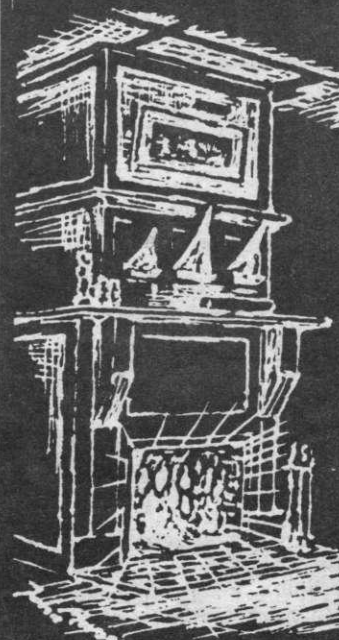

Erica and Anthony's Grandma will be 65 on May 16.

Hospital Day a major event during island's early years

By MIKE TURKKI

Hospital Day (May 12) has a long history in British Columbia, particularly in the Gulf Islands.

On Salt Spring, the Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital auxiliary has kept the tradition of Hospital Day alive for decades. Even in the 1980s, auxiliary members organize a small celebration each year to mark the occasion; yesterday, for example, a special cake was prepared for hospital staff.

Although Hospital Day is now used by auxiliary members to recognize the important contributions of local health care workers, it once played a far more important role in Salt Spring community life.

Notes written in 1965 by one of the island's early settlers, obtained last week by hospital auxiliary president Betty Galt, describe the significance of Hospital Day during the island's pioneer period.

According to the early settler — who Galt has requested not be identified — Hospital Day was a major social event in the early 1900s, when Lady Minto was operated by a private society and located in the two-storey building now occupied by Salt Spring's Community Centre. Fund-raisers were held annually on that date to ensure the hospital had adequate financial resources.

During the years immediately following Lady Minto Hospital's establishment in 1914, for example, Pound Day was held each year to keep the institution in supplies.

"Subscribers arrived with a pound of tea or a pound of soap or a pound of meat to help offset the expenses of the new venture (the hospital)," wrote the early settler in her faded Hilroy school notebook. "During the '20s, the name changed to Hospital Day and the event was advertised as a shower and silver tea. Usually, it was more of a shower than a silver collection, as in 1934 only $7 was collected. The hospital auxiliary would report what items were in short supply, and hopefully these articles would be donated."

"The scent of lilac always takes me back to Hospital Day," she wrote. "This was a social highlight in Ganges in the days that the community centre on Ganges Hill was the Lady Minto Hospital."

"Often the hospital board had great difficulty in getting enough subscribers to cover the operating costs . . . Because the margin of error was so slim, the value of Hospital Day cannot be overlooked. On this occasion, all the islanders who were able would take a gift to the hospital — usually food, linen or money. In return, the visitors would be shown over the hospital by the staff, often to admire some new addition to the building or grounds, and have a cup of tea."

Hospital Day, recalled the island settler, was always held on or near the May birthdate of famous nurse Florence Nightingale. The week preceding this event was a hectic one for Lady Minto staff, who took great pride in the hospital and their work.

"In my day, all week the nurses

'Often the hospital board had great difficulty in getting enough subscribers to cover the operating costs.'

would help Lassie Dodds make sure everything was as clean as soap and elbow grease could make it. The cook would have fresh paper on all shelves in the kitchen, and everyone hoped the temperamental stove wouldn't need Spike Alexander to keep it alight on that day of all days (Hospital Day).

"The day of the tea, long tables were set up in the central corridor, and out on the screened porch went the tea tables for the visitors. The auxiliary members brought gleaming silver tea services, their own bone china cups and saucers, and beautifully embroidered tea cloths. Then came the flowers, great bowls of lilac and tulips and narcissi. Flowers were everywhere: in the patients' room, the corridor, the veranda, the dining room. The nurses had each patient in clean linen from top to toe . . . At lunch time, the staff changed to fresh uniforms and the nurses wore their graduation uniforms with starched collars, long sleeves, and bibs and aprons."

Donations received from community members on Hospital Day were carefully recorded by Lady Minto officials. The list for 1936, in part, reads: "Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crofton (donated) pillow cases, towels, vase; Mrs. F.C. Turner gave a tablecloth; Mrs. R. Nichols, bottled fruits and jams; Miss Beddis, cornstarch." More than 100 gifts were donated to the hospital on that date, in addition to produce contributed on a daily basis throughout the year.

Hospital Day, 1940, stood out in the settler's mind as one of the most memorable of such occasions.

"That year, Peggy Mouat and Bev Smith had a candy stall and sold raffle tickets on a box of fudge made by the (hospital) matron, Miss M. Ross," noted the woman. "Miss Mary Lees presided over a stall of baby clothes and knitted articles. One of the specialties of Miss Anna and Miss Mary Lees was charming knitted kangaroos about four inches high, each with a tiny joey in its pouch. (The sale of) these gay toys raised many dollars for the Lady Minto and the Red Cross. That year, too, there was a teacup reader, Mrs. George West, and Miss S. Halley told fortunes."

The provincial government assumed responsibility for Lady Minto hospital after the Second World War. The diary's author, while recognizing the benefits of a government-operated health care system, expressed sadness at the negative impact this had on community-based support for Lady Minto. Hospital Day, she noted, was never quite the same again.

"After the government took over . . . it was hard to keep up the same enthusiasm for the hospital. No longer was it necessary to put a plea in the newspaper for babies' nightgowns — now the government would see that the cupboards were stacked with linen, food, china."

"Undoubtedly, the hospital has lost something of the intimacy it once had with its early subscribers. Now, if the hospital needs something, the board can budget for it. Much more efficient, but somehow a little less ours when we no longer need that charming, lilac-scented day of sharing — Hospital Day."

Group discusses Life Skills events

Thirteen members of the Life Skills program support group met May 5 to discuss activities planned for the Gulf Islands Secondary School students.

The meeting, hosted by Val Blackburn and Ethel Mangnus, was told that a picnic planned for Saturday, May 9, had to be postponed until the end of the school term. The event, an open-air barbecue, will be held at Booth Bay Resort at a time and date to be determined later.

It was noted that the wheelchair relay, held May 2 in support of the Rick Hansen Man In Motion fund for spinal cord research, raised over $3,000 in contributions. Support group members were told that the sum represented "a super effort on the part of the group and the community," and were reminded to see that all pledges are promptly collected by students.

The proposed trip to meet

Hansen is on, meanwhile. The support group has received and confirmed its acceptance of an invitation to the welcome-home event planned for Hansen in Coquitlam, where Salt Spring contributions will be presented to the marathoner.

It was decided that Life Skills Program students will rely on public transportation while on the trip, and will be accommodated at an Edith Carell School.

The group leaves for Coquitlam on May 21 and returns to Salt Spring on May 23.

The meeting was also told that individual meetings with parents, regarding student programs and placements, will be held from June 15 to June 19.

Advocates form their own organization

Tourism business growing on Galiano Island

By BASIL and KATHLYN BENDER

Tourism on Galiano is big business and getting bigger. Its advocates are vocal and have their own organization, GIVA. There are, however, many residents of Galiano to whom tourism means nothing — or a pain in the neck. Very few seniors stand to gain anything from the summer influx of visitors. The attitudes of island residents range from the 'full life-boat syndrome' to the 'buck imperative.'

The first hypothesis likens the island to a boat which is being used to escape from a sinking world. Some people think that the boat is already loaded to capacity, and if more 'refugees' attempt to get on board the boat will sink — or turn into something else like a Coney Island or a Lower Mainland suburb. Zero growth is a concept with long antecedents such as Malthusianism, and is now supported by an impressive array of intellectual Jeremiahs predicting environmental apocalypse. Those in the second category ask first, "What's in it for me?" A minority involved in the tourism industry do give the impression that the maximization of profit overrides every other consideration.

It is probable that the distribution of islanders' opinion about tourism fits the normal bell-shaped curve between the two extremes. That is, that most people accept some degree of tourism, but not too much. Most people recognize that it is a privilege to live in such a beautiful environment, and that it would be selfish in the extreme to prevent others from sharing it.

However, this benevolence must be tempered with vigilance, lest the qualities that make Galiano so attractive be destroyed in the enjoying of them. So most islanders are probably schizophrenic about tourism. They welcome friends and even strangers into their homes and onto the island, but feel uneasy and uncomfortable with over-enthusiastic and excessive promotion of Galiano.

This situation presents a problem for the Chamber of Commerce, which on Galiano is atypical and functions more as a representative council, a channel of communication from islanders in general (not just those engaged in commerce) to government or public bodies on such matters as ferry schedules. Within the chamber there is a strong lobby on behalf of the tourist industry, but members of the chamber's executive must be aware that there is a large, but unorganized and so far silent group of residents opposed to further and more vigorous promotion of tourism. That the members of this group are in the majority is probable; that they are relatively silent might be in consideration for their neighbours and friends, who stand to benefit from increased tourism. Nevertheless, it might be better if the 'majority' were less silent and not let the vocal 'minority' give the impression that everyone on Galiano needs and loves tourists.

Sinclair Exhibition

The Irving Sinclair retrospective at the Galiano Hall on Sunday, May 3, was more fascinating as a biography of the artist than as an art exhibition, although that held great interest for which the organizers, Margaret Robson and Christa Weiss, are to be commended. They had assembled a varied collection of Sinclair's paintings illustrating many periods of the artist's life and development, thanks to a considerable contribution from Irving's niece, Marie Mackie of Saturna. A good representative collection of black and white photographs of earlier paintings hung in the City of Paris Gallery in San Francisco added historical perspective.

Portrait painting was the artist's forte. Portraits of the rich, famous and glamorous, including such diverse subjects as Eisenhower and Greta Garbo, were the income-producing efforts of a skilled professional. The Galiano portraits showed the artist as a student of character. The ones of his mother and wife were most revealing, but his Georgeson series were of more local interest. Archie Georgeson and young Rosemary are the subjects of delightful portraits — it is a pity that the one of Mary Harding was sold off the island.

In mid-career Sinclair favoured landscapes and during his annual summer vacation on Galiano painted the conventional favourite views around Active Pass. His view of the Sturdies Bay wharf with the old Princess Mary tied alongside will remind old-timers of the days when ferry schedules were even more elastic and provocative.

Sinclair himself considered the Crucifixion painting now hanging above the altar in St. Margaret's Church to be his masterpiece. This is a sombre and powerful work. The background is a realistic landscape with a gloomy sky lit by shafts of sunlight with veils of virga falling from the storm clouds. Christ on the cross dominates the picture with its central position. Some parishioners would prefer a more hopeful and less morbid picture, but it is a matter of theological interpretation whether the Crucifixion or the Resurrection is more central to Christian belief.

Sinclair was a master of the oil on canvas technique. He briefly tried acrylic in the 1960s, but returned to oils which he continued to use until the end of his painting life. In his later years he turned out large numbers of still-lives and flower arrangements, often completed very rapidly with a pallet knife.

The most poignant exhibit in the show was a portrait of Fred Robson begun in 1968. In one sitting the head and face had been completed to perfection. The body was just hinted at in sketch lines. At this point Sinclair became ill and had to go to Lady Minto Hospital where he learned that his illness was terminal. The portrait was never completed.

Fire Prevention

The dry, hot spell should remind us that the 'fire season' is upon us and that any burning without a permit is prohibited. Conditions under which burning is allowed may be ascertained from the North and South Galiano fire chiefs. Last fall the North Galiano New Horizons Fire Services Committee published and distributed a booklet entitled Galiano Island — Fire Prevention. This simply but well-written and indexed 14-page booklet was approved by the B.C. Fire Commissioner and officials of the ministry of forests.

It has been learned that some residents were missed in the mailing. If you have not received your copy ask for one from Chester Williams (2461) if you live in the South Galiano Fire Protection District, or Edith Wishart (2958) for the rest of the island.

Scottish Dance-Fest

The Scottish Country Dancing season drew to a dramatic close this last weekend, when our local dancers hosted 59 Delta Borderers. All took part in an afternoon workshop and evening party at South Galiano Community Hall conducted by Delta teacher Ruth Jappy to live music of accordion, synthesizer and drum supplied by her husband and daughter, with the miniature mascot of her diminutively-kilted two-year-old grandson.

Before they caught the Sunday ferry home, several dancers played golf, explored Galiano and partook of a delicious Mother's Day breakfast, ably organized by

Coming Events

- On Saturday, May 16, two important events will occur close together in time and space. The W.A. to the South Fire Department will hold their annual Fire Sale in and around the fire hall from 10:30 am until 2:30 pm. Refreshments will be available. At the South Community Hall, officers of the CRD will hold an open house to discuss garbage disposal and reduction, between 12:30 and 2:30 pm.
- On Sunday, Dr. Stuart MacLeod will conduct a United Church Service at St. Margaret's beginning at 11 am.
- Tickets ($5) for the Galiano School of Arts May 23 Festival Evening Benefit are available now at the GSA office, Burrill Brothers Store, Corner Store and Spanish Hills Store. Proceeds will go to the Summer Adventures '87 program.

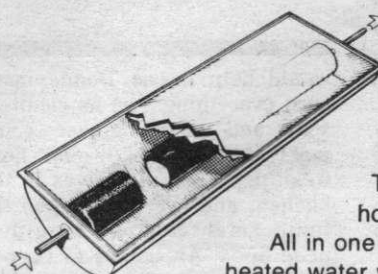

the North Galiano Community Association.

Information

Islanders are invited to visit the recently moved and spring-cleaned Tourist Information Centre near Sturdies Bay Ferry Terminal, open at weekend ferry times until the end of June, and then hopefully seven days a week during July and August. To make the timetable a reality, adult helpers are asked to volunteer to manager Wendy Hales at 2735. Wendy wishes to thank Peter Estabrook, Fred Stevens, Peter Rabatich and Bill Calloway for their efforts to relocate and re-furbish the centre.

Local History

Last Friday, Gulf Islands historians met at Robert's Chocolate Factory to hear about the geology of Mayne Island from local authoress Marie Elliott. Any Galiano-ite who is willing to act on a short term committee on heritage preservation, please volunteer without delay to Benger at 5702. The next meeting of the Gulf Islands branch will be on Wednesday, June 3, to tour Royal Roads Gardens and Hatley Castle.

der for Salt Spring on Sunday.

The retreat officially opens at 7:30 pm on Friday, May 21, and continues until after lunch on Sunday, May 31, but a special concentration has been made for the Saturday session "so that islanders can arrive early at Pender in time for breakfast, spend the day and leave late in the evening, reaching home by a direct ferry," organizers said. "One day is better than none."

Speakers at this year's retreat will be Alvin and Mary Hamill from Victoria. The theme is Prayer: The Key To Renewal And Revival.

The retreat features separate adult and youth programs, child care, special music and food. All meals are supplied at the Hope Bay camp. At the campsite, there are unheated cabins, camper and tent spaces. Billets in Pender Island homes are also available.

The retreat is a non-denominational event which costs $5 per participant, with children under the age of six years being admitted free of charge. There will be a free-will collection to cover expenses.

Pre-registration is through Mrs. MacGregor (629-6117). Further information is available from Bill Sawyer (539-5551). Watch the Driftwood classifieds for details.

Mayne Island man ordained as priest

Last month's Easter services were doubly significant for parishioners at Mayne Island's St. Mary Magdalene Parish Church.

Along with celebrating a religious occasion, the service marked the acceptance of a Mayne Island resident into the priesthood.

Congregation member Larry Greig recently completed his studies at the University of B.C.'s Vancouver School of Theology and, on May 1, was ordained into the ministry at Christ Church Cathedral.

"As far as is known from the church records, which date back to 1896, Larry will be the first person to enter the ministry from Mayne Island," reports Denis Simmons, People's Warden at St. Mary Magdalene.

"It is also a major achievement as he retired from the Canadian Armed Forces, after long service, to take up this new challenge in the service of his church."

Greig has always been active in St. Mary's Church as a lay reader. Simmons added, especially during the three years he spent at UBC.

In appreciation of that service, the Easter service at St. Mary Magdalene saw members of the congregation present Greig with a Concordance, a set of Stoles and a leather-bound book of prayer. The women's auxiliary to the church and the Mayne Island branch of the Royal Canadian Legion added a monetary gift.

Following the presentation, a coffee hour was held.

Bev O'Sullivan

Physiotherapist talks at care group meeting

By ELEANOR HARRISON

PENDER ISLANDS — The Palliative Care Society had an interesting speaker at its last regular monthly meeting, held April 27.

Bev O'Sullivan, Pender Islands Health Care Society's physiotherapist, spoke for over an hour and demonstrated an assortment of aids. She showed the audience crutches, canes, pillows, an ultrasound machine, balance board, a transcutaneous nerve stimulator, back rests and bolsters and explained the value of each in assisting home bed-ridden patients.

In line with this, she also explained quite a number of home-made articles that can be easily used to help bed-ridden patients to be more comfortable, such as a rope ladder which assists the patient to change positions in bed himself, a bicycle inner tube used in exercising, and a large bath towel wrapped around the patients to assist in getting in and out of the bathtub. She stressed there are many self-help devices commercially available and many ideas for home-made devices today.

O'Sullivan said that physiotherapists deal with the muscular system of the body and can do much for ill people by helping them to be more comfortable, more able to cope with their situation and better able to use the capabilities they have to improve the quality of their life.

Exercise and movement is necessary even in older people — it helps them survive longer in a better atmosphere, she said. Physiotherapists, by definition, work primarily with rehabilitation, but the mind and the body cannot work separately.

The ultra-sound machine works well for acute and inflammatory conditions, and a home unit is available. The patient in bed for only a week will notice the quad muscles in the front of the legs weaken; these are the major muscles for standing. He may also feel dizzy — the balance board which can be made at home is excellent therapy here.

With canes and crutches it is imperative that they be the correct height.

The care-giver should do proper exercises herself, encourage the patient to exercise in bed, increasingly progressively and make it a fun challenge where possible.

O'Sullivan spoke about chronic pain and many newer studies and books are available on handling this. She showed some bio-feedback devices available, which have been used with success. This is where the transcutaneous nerve stimulator comes into play — it works on a principle similar to acupuncture.

Altogether, O'Sullivan's talk was an enlightening and stimulating hour for the 30 members of the Palliative Care Society who attended.

Hall set for annual barbecue

We have a new student at Saturna School. Brian Carpenter, David's son, now lives on Saturna. Brian loves horses and does a really good job handling the lawnmower at this grandparents' house.

Yesterday, I arrived at the recycling depot on the right day but during the wrong hours. So I thought I would print the schedule again: Sunday or holiday Mondays (not both), 2:30 pm to 4:30 pm; Thursdays, 10 am to 12 noon.

Erin Boser has a new horse. Ken Gillespie sold her Georgie and Erin is very happy. Georgie has gotten right to work and carries Erin up and down to Campbell's every day. Erin will be working there for the next eight weeks, doing all-around farming activities. For Erin, an employment opportunity like this is Heaven.

Later this week is the Saturna Island Volunteer Fire Department's pig barbecue and dance.

by priscilla janszen

That's Saturday, May 16, at the community hall. The schedule of events is: bar opens at 4:30 pm, dinner starts at 6:30 pm, dance is at 8 pm. Cost for adults is $8 for the dinner and dance, $4 for kids.

I really enjoy the spring barbecue. The evening is almost always soft and warm, the women wear fancy summery things and the kids play in front of the hall while the adults gab and visit, and succulent pork smells waft around. Lots of people turn out, and it is always a wonderful get-together.

Come down early, view the dinner cooking (Jon Guy barbecues the homegrown pig in front of the hall) and visit.

The OAP had a marvellous meeting early last week. About 40 people came to share the meal and meeting. Ed West returned to take up the president's chair.

Joan Robertson, the vice-president, received a hearty round of applause for chairing the meeting while Ed was away.

Melanie Gaines is back teaching at school after a long medical leave. Louise Perimaki, Dawne Milligan, Michael Groblar and Gail Trafford shifted schedules and hours and everything ran smoothly in Melanie's absence. I'm sure the kids enjoyed the change and I'm sure they're glad Melanie is back healthy and rested.

The spring weather has been simply extravagant with sunshine and warmth. Islanders are looking toasty brown with garden dirt and suntans.

My roses are blooming, irises are jumping out, and the grass grows and grows. I know it's time to shear the sheep but the carrots need to go in and the paths need weeding and the cucumbers need to be potted up and the apple trees need to be sprayed for tent caterpillars and who wants to go in the house and do the dishes?

Quieter helicopters on the way

Helijet Airways will have a new and quieter helicopter operating on its Vancouver-to-Victoria commuter flight next week.

A spokesman for the company said last week that Helijet has received its first Sikorsky S-76 helicopter and will have it in operation by mid-May. The new machine will replace the Bell 412 currently used by Helijet on its Vancouver-Victoria run.

Residents of the Outer Islands who live under Helijet's flight path have complained about noise created by the Bell 412 on its eight daily commuter flights between B.C.'s two largest cities. The company spokesman said Helijet hopes that use of the 12-passenger Sikorsky will alleviate the noise problem.

Daniel Sitnam, president of Helijet, said recently that in addition to addressing the concerns of island residents, the new helicopter will enable the company to meet increasing demands for its service.

"The Sikorsky is recognized as leaders in helicopter technology," Sitnam said. "Passengers and residents along our route will notice they are quieter than our present Bell 412."

"Advanced engineering has reduced vibration to a minimum, resulting in a smoother ride, and its sleek aerodynamic design brings speed, comfort and fuel efficiency advantages. They also have retractable wheels, which permits the required taxiing to and from terminal gates at the international airport."

The new helicopter is the first of three Sikorsky to be acquired by Helijet. The second Sikorsky is scheduled to arrive in early June, and will be put into service almost immediately. A third aircraft, to be acquired at the end of June, will add four flights daily during peak morning and afternoon hours.

Contracts awarded for Grace Point work

Site work began last week on Grace Point Holdings' property in downtown Ganges.

Grace Point spokesman David Questo announced that Intercoast Project Management Ltd. of Burnaby and Victoria has been appointed to supervise tendering and construction of the first two commercial buildings. Construction work on the buildings, scheduled for completion in early fall, is expected to begin this month.

The first invitational tender package for site excavation and foundations has been awarded to MCL Construction Ltd. of Burnaby, after a close competition with several bidders — including three Salt Spring Island firms.

One of the first jobs undertaken will be the driving of piles to stabilize the foundation of Grace Point Holdings' new building along Fulford-Ganges Road. The construction site entrance will be located opposite Purvis Road to minimize the impact of construction vehicle traffic on the village's main intersection. A chain-type fence will be erected around the site for public safety.

Questo says that efforts will be made by Grace Point Holdings to minimize any public inconvenience that may occur during construction.

"Constructing a commercial building isn't a silent operation, unfortunately," Questo said, "and we have to ask the public to bear with us and understand that we're going to build it as quickly as possible with a minimum of disruption downtown."

Salt Spring Insurance, a long-time tenant of Grace Point Holdings' property east of Centennial Park, has been temporarily relocated on Mouat's Trading Company property between the fire hall and the Kanaka Restaurant until the firm's new space in Grace Point Square is completed. Half of the building formerly occupied by the insurance firm was moved to the property April 28, while the remaining section has been transported to Harbour's End Marine and Equipment.

Salt Spring Esso, operated by Dennis and Sherry Beech, will remain in its current location east of Centennial Park throughout the summer.

Course graduates taken for spin in Zodiac

Youths receive boating training

Eight Grade Six and Seven students who have just graduated from the Let's be Boatwise course, sponsored and taught by members of the Salt Spring Island Power and Sail Squadron, had the thrill of putting the training to practical use aboard the Coast Guard vessel Skua on Saturday morning during a brief cruise around Ganges harbour.

The course taken by the students consisted of five 1½ hour sessions on consecutive Thursday afternoons and two Saturday mornings on the water. While the course was conceived and is taught by the Canadian Power Squadrons in many areas across Canada, it has been enthusiastically endorsed by educational authorities and the Canadian Coast Guard.

The objective is to teach the children some of the basics of safe boating and how to correctly react in the case of emergencies. It was originally conceived several years ago in eastern Canada following an incident when a young boy was out boating with his grandfather and was confronted with a medical emergency with which he was unable to cope.

In the course, the students are taught to identify their own or any other vessel in distress; to be able to give the location of their vessel relative to visible landmarks or navigation aids; to properly call for assistance by radio; to know the rudiments of operating their vessel including the right of way; to understand the use and care of life-jackets and common sense safe seamanship.

This year's course was taught by Squadron Commander Max Fitch and the students who took the course are: Christopher and Jeremy Huntley, Ian Jenkins, Blake Langley, Anthony Marks, Darren Nordine and Brendon and Garrett Wall.

United Way grant given to society

The Salt Spring Island Community Society has received a $6,000 Outreach grant from the United Way organization of Greater Victoria.

Community society director Barbara Jordan-Knox said Monday the money will be used to continue the Achievement-Centre's Hands-On Training Program for the handicapped.

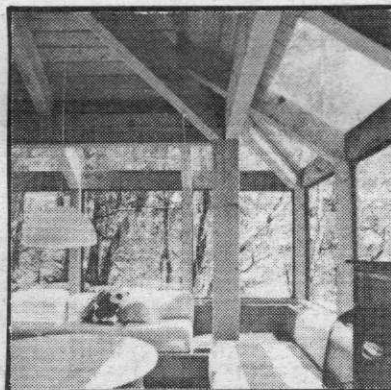

"The program enables handicapped people, under supervision, to provide services such as yard clean-up, chopping wood, collecting seaweed for gardens when it's in season, and delivering kindling to people's homes," Jordan-Knox explained. "The money will enable us to continue this program, as well as market their crafts and sell the produce from their garden at Vesuvius in the Farmers' Market."

The society's director said the Hands-On Training Program, which has been in operation for two years, helps handicapped people learn social skills and teaches them to manage money. "It links us with the community," she added.

Jordan-Knox said the community society was extremely fortunate to receive the one-year United Way grant. She noted that the Victoria service organization received approximately 54 requests totalling an estimated $250,000, yet had only $84,000 to allocate.

"Six thousand dollars was about the most awarded," she said.

Jordan-Knox encouraged local residents interested in having work done by the Achievement Centre to contact community society officials.

Two tie for first in tennis meet

The season's first round-robin mixed tennis tournament was played in glorious weather last weekend on Salt Spring Island.

Demons take top spot in men's tennis

Don's Dazzling Demons won the recent season-opening men's team doubles tennis tournament on Salt Spring Island. The event, called the Jack Fisher Special, attracted six teams and involved 27 players.

The Demons took top spot with a record of nine wins and one defeat. Team members were Don Hartwig, Pat Tiernan, Dennis McMaster and Art Botham.

Finishing second was Toby's Tigers, while Grewal's Graphite Gophers placed third. Tied for fourth were the Banditos and Gordie's Golden Boys, and in sixth spot was Coehlo Quick Quailers.

Island-wide softball group to be discussed

Salt Spring Island groups involved with softball are holding a meeting tonight (Wednesday) at 8:30 pm. in the room adjacent to Salt Spring Elementary School's library.

The meeting has been called to discuss the possibility of forming an island-wide organization to promote both competitive and recreational softball here.

Recreation commission member Wayne Taylor said Monday: "Presently, there are over 30 teams playing softball on the island, from very young children to adults of many ages. Groups invited to send representatives (to tonight's meeting) include the Salt Spring Ladies' Softball Association, the Salt Spring Men's Softball Association, men's competitive slowpitch, mixed recreational slowpitch, minor softball and the umpires."

Taylor said a major concern of all island softball groups appears to be the poor condition of many local playing fields. He explained that there is only one public ball diamond on the island (located at Portlock Park). All others — eight in total — are located on either school district or private property.

The fields' poor condition is directly related to a lack of maintenance. Taylor explained that School District 64 has only two individuals to look after all of its fields, while fields located on private property often receive no maintenance work.

"The school district has eight fields and only two guys to maintain them," Taylor said. "There is no way two people can keep them all up."

Taylor suggests that all softball organizations on the island form an organization that could develop a ball diamond maintenance plan.

"It would likely entail holding workbees, that type of thing," he said. "One of the major focuses would be to work with the recreation commission and school board to upgrade and improve the fields."

Taylor also hopes that clinics can be held on the island to train new umpires.

Cornwall tied for first place on the ladies' side with a total set score of 23, while Jack Fisher took it all on the men's side with a perfect 24 score.

Thanks went out to Norman

Best for his "organizational gymnastics."

Next tournament is a ladies' doubles event on May 24. For information, contact Marianne Allan at 537-2635.

Ladies play qualifying round

By PAT DOHERTY

On Tuesday, the 18-hole ladies played the qualifying round for the Rose Bowl. Medalist Connie Hardy shot a 91, while runner-up Irene Hawksworth posted a score of 93. Low net was Dollie Whorley at 68, and runner-up was Jerry Alexander at 70. The putt pot was taken by Shirley Parsons with 27 putts.

The ladies held their annual invitational last week and could not have bought better weather for the tournament. The results will be in next week's report.

The men will play their rain-delayed start for the Morris Mouat Cups and the qualifying round for the Matson on Saturday.

The course is in tremendous shape and Nick and his greens-keeping staff are to be congratulated for a job well done.

FC to stage its second tournament

By MALCOLM LEGG

This weekend at Portlock Park the Salt Spring FC men's soccer team will stage its second annual soccer tournament for the Eric Springford Challenge Cup.

The three-day tourney will feature five teams, including FC, Sidney Clarage, Victoria West, Andy Capp (Vancouver) and Sidetrack United (Vancouver, and last year's winner).

Saturday and Sunday will see round-robin play starting at 11 am and ending around 5:30 pm. The top four from these games will advance to Monday play.

The final day will see the semi-finals at 10 am and 11:15 am, with the final at 1:30 pm.

The official kick-off ceremony will be held prior to the 12:15 pm Saturday game, which involves Salt Spring FC, and the closing ceremonies will be on Monday at 3 pm. We hope to have a couple of the old-timers out for the ceremonies.

On all three days, there will be liquid refreshment available courtesy of the Lions Club, and the Salt Spring Soccer Association will have its concession stand running to provide food and goodies. We also hope to have the Lions barbecue going late Sunday, if all works out.

As a special presentation on Monday at 12:30 pm, there will be a penalty shot competition between those players who wish to enter.

The concept of the tournament is to feature some excellent men's soccer over the three days and to honour the memory of all those who have played soccer on Salt Spring over the years.

Naming the trophy after Eric Springford, an old-timer, is our way of remembering that the roots of soccer on Salt Spring go way back to the turn of the century, and that names like Cartwright, Lumley, Nichols, Crofton, Roland, Morris and many, many more should always be remembered.

So whether you played 50 years ago or yesterday, come out and cheer the good old times while watching the modern-day counterparts in action. It should be a great weekend of soccer.

down through the years

with Driftwood

Twenty-five years ago

- The steadily-worsening school tax situation in the Gulf Islands caused concern among people living in the region.
- The Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce, upset by recent tax increases, compiled a list of tax figures and sent it to B.C. minister Earle C. Westwood. The mill rate had increased to 19.9 from 1958's figure of 11.46.
- It was announced that Howard Green, minister of external affairs, would visit Salt Spring Island.
- Green was scheduled to address a public meeting to be held in Mahon Hall. W.F. Matthews, Progressive Conservative MP for the area, was to accompany the minister.
- The regular monthly meeting of the Anglican Church women's auxiliary was held in the Parish Hall on May 11. President of the organization, Mrs. G.H. Holmes, chaired the session. The group decided to send $5 to the Caroline Macklem Home Garden Fete.

Twenty years ago

- Mac Mouat took the lead in an ongoing fishing derby organized by the Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club.
- Mouat hauled in a 20-pound, eight-ounce salmon — the largest caught in the derby at that time. He took over top spot from Fred Morris, whose 11-pound spring salmon had been the largest caught.
- Tenders had been called on the construction of five new classrooms at Gulf Islands Secondary School.
- The addition of the classrooms was approved in a building referendum accepted in December by Island residents. Plans and specifications for the classrooms were being prepared by the Victoria architectural firm of Siddall and Dennis.
- Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital handled more patients in one year than ever before, according to a report delivered by Douglas Cavaye.

In-patients numbered 663 in 1967, up 43 per cent from the previous year. The hospital treated 1,543 out-patients during the year, an increase of 56 per cent.

Fifteen years ago

- A fatal automobile accident, the second in two weeks, occurred on Salt Spring.
- Police said a young student nurse from Royal Jubilee Hospital died when the vehicle in which she was riding left the road and dropped over a 20-foot embankment.
- April was a cold month, according to Ganges weather observer Howard Carlin.
- Salt Spring also received 21 days of overcast weather and rain during the month. During the remaining nine days of April, Carlin said, the island received a few sunny periods and a lot of cold, windy weather.
- The ministry of highways pulled its crews off a road widening project on North Beach Road after residents complained about the work.
- The protest was followed by another by residents who supported the project. Objectors said widening the road would make it more dangerous, while those who supported the work said it was already dangerously narrow.

Ten years ago

- Population figures for the Gulf Islands were released by the Capital Regional District.
- The population of the entire Gulf Islands was listed as 6,288. Salt Spring Island had a population of 4,439.
- A Salt Spring Island woman almost drowned when she was pinned beneath a log on the beach at Southey Point.
- Marjorie Beggs of Quebec Drive went down to the beach at the end of Arbutus Road and sat on a log. The log rolled, trapping Beggs underneath it. Her calls for help were heard by Dr. Jerry Nestman.
- The log had to be sawn through to free Beggs. The tide was coming in, and by the time the rescue was effected, Beggs was half submerged.
- The B.C. Ferry Corporation announced fare reductions on most Gulf Islands routes, although the prices of commuter tickets and resident fares were unaffected.
- As a result of the changes, it was cheaper to travel to Vancouver. The cost of travelling between Vancouver and the Gulf Islands was $9 for a vehicle, $3 per adult passenger and $1.50 per child.

- Health Minister Bob McClelland announced that $455,000 had been allocated to Lady Minto hospital for improvements.

The improvement project included the addition of 10 extended care beds and some renovations to existing facilities.

Five years ago

- A second store in Ganges was given a new lease on life after its owners made structural changes to the building.
- The Capital Regional District's board agreed to allow the modification of Turner's Store so that it could accommodate two businesses.
- A stop-work order had been issued on modifications to the building, but Les Ramsey appealed the health officer's decision to without a certificate.
- It was announced that the Grade Nine program at the Pender Island school would be discontinued until further notice.
- The decision to end the program was made by trustees, who cited a lack of support from Pender Island parents. Pender trustee John Zacharias said predicted enrolment at the school was six, and it was inefficient to run a full Grade Nine program for so few students.
