Salt Spring dumpsters overflowing

Garbage is being dumped in garbage cans and dumpsters owned by Salt Spring businesses and located in island parks. Many people believe the problem is worse since the Blackburn dump closed.

By IAN NOBLE
Driftwood Staff Writer

Mouat's Trading Company president Tom Toynbee said Friday household garbage left in garbage receptacles meant for store customers is costing the company money.

"A hell of a lot. Garbage charges are more than doubled from what they were last year and we are recycling all cardboard and all recyclable paper."

Mouat's got rid of its dumpster "because it was attracting too much garbage," said Toynbee.

He added the mall has always had a problem with household garbage but the problem has "increased substantially" since the dump closed.

Salt Spring islanders consider themselves part of a group that cares for the environment. However, this is not being demonstrated, said Toynbee.

"Chocolate bar wrappers are our responsibility," he said. "We don't feel soiled diapers brought from home are."

Harbour House Hotel owner Tracy Combs said the hotel moved its dumpster away from the hotel into a more visible location so people dumping garbage into it can be seen.

Previously, the hotel locked the dumpster "off and on" but doing so was "a pain."

"Now with this new garbage thing we have to lock it. People bring their garbage here."

People have left their garbage laying beside the dumpster when it was locked, said Combs, adding crows would then rip the bags open and leave the garbage scattered on the yard.

She said the Harbour House has not had a problem for a month or more partly because the dumpster has been moved and partly because "people are getting used to the idea that they have to deal with their garbage."

"It's fixed itself."

Parks and Recreation Commission administrator Tony Hume said garbage being dumped on PRC property has always been a problem "but it is a little bit worse than it was last year at this time. Every

Island Reform candidate takes riding nomination

When Gulf Islanders look at their ballots in the next federal election, Salt Spring's Jack Frazer will be one of the names to choose from.

Frazer won the Reform Party of Canada nomination Saturday after all party members' votes were counted. He received approval from 259 of 574 participating members. East Saanich magazine editor, freelance writer and former alderman Barbara Brennan was Frazer's opponent in the race. She received 215 votes.

Becoming the Reform candidate for Saanich-Gulf Islands has suddenly brought "a realization of how much is ahead and how much will need to be done (before the election)," he told the Driftwood.

"What we would really like is for people to get to know the party," said Frazer.

"A lot of people take shots at the Reform Party and unhappily people believe them without delving into the situation."

"We are saying look at us closely and obviously it won't please everybody, but have a look at us," he stressed.

Frazer said the Conservative Party has been mounting a direct negative campaign against Reformers in areas like Lake Simcoe and Calgary.

"We are their chief threat," he noted, with Reform supporters coming from all parties but primarily the Tories.

Whist dock given the go ahead

A Vesuvius Bay foreshore lease has been granted to the Whists — with some modifications negotiated by B.C. Lands and Salt Spring Island Trustees.

B.C. Lands regional administrator Max Nock confirmed for private moorage because it was "appropriate" from his department's perspective.

However, Nock said after meeting May 29 with trustees John Stepaniuk and Bob Andrew to review community and Trust con-things we could do."

In answer to fears of a precedent being set for that area, he said a "temporary reserve" on further applications for Vesuvius Bay would be established.

He said that was a "bit of an

Driftwood contest at Capers

A total of $350 in cash prizes is up for grabs at the Great Driftwood Driftwood contest this Sunday.

Entry forms for the event have been leaving the newspaper office this week at a fast pace.

Introduced this year as part of Sea Capers festivities, the contest takes place at Drummond Park between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Entries must be brought to the park by 11 a.m. Voting by the those attending Sea Capers takes place from 12 noon to 3 p.m. when the winners will be announced. Ballots will be available on site.

Entries can be made in two categories — natural and decorated with items from the sea shore.

Winners will also receive

Salt Spring's time to celebrate the joys and craziness of life on an island has arrived again, on schedule. Sea Capers events take over Ganges on Saturday, with cavorting in Fulford's Drummond Park Sunday.

Pancakes, parades, loony contests and races, sand sculpting, treasure hunting, music and dancing are some of the fun offering taking place this weekend. Detailed programs are available at many island locations.

exception" for B.C. Lands to make but was done because Andrew and Stepaniuk assured him Salt Spring shoreline re-zoning would be underway soon.

Nock also noted LeRoy Jensen's Vesuvius Bay foreshore lease application had not been accepted.

"We felt it negatively impacted recreational values, which was one of the key areas of concern.

"Ultimately the zoning will reflect what local residents want to see," he said, "and it gives the people an opportunity at a local level to say what they feel is appropriate for that site."

Nock also said the Whists' dock size was reduced in width from 10 to eight feet and the approved total area was less than originally proposed.

Stepaniuk said he felt a compromise was reached from "a desire on behalf of the Trust and Crown lands to find a resolution," while Andrew said he still raised objections to Nock because of community concerns.

FRAZER

The Reform Party has 130,000 members across Canada, he said, and will be pushing to increase that number before the next federal election, which must be called by the fall of 1993.

Frazer has lived on Salt Spring since 1986 when he retired as a colonel from the Canadian armed forces. He challenged Capital Regional District director Julia Atkins in the 1990 regional government election.

For the RECORD

Salt Spring Parks and Recreation Commission does not "legally own" Fulford ball park as mentioned in a story about recreational site maintenance in last week's Driftwood. The commission says it leases the land from Jim Akerman.

Possession of stolen property

A Salt Spring woman was charged with possession of stolen property after her home was searched June 3.

Stolen property was recovered in the Maliview Drive home, but police did not identify the property recovered.

She will appear in Ganges court August 11.

A car battery stolen from a vehicle parked on Fernwood Drive May 29 was found by the owner in a local service station June 5.

An island male brought the stolen battery into the service station. When the owner saw the battery, he called police.

No charges have been laid. The investigation is continuing.

Possession

Two minors were charged with being in possession of alcohol outside the youth centre the night of June 5. Both were 17 and given $50 fines.

On June 6, another youth was charged with the same offence as a result of a vehicle check on Hereford Avenue. He was fined $50.

Should have heeded solid waste group's advice

Issues become clearer in hindsight.

In October, 1989 Salt Spring Islanders voted overwhelmingly (2424 to 205) against construction of a Capital Regional District transfer station on Salt Spring.

Unfortunately, at the time, the vote became clouded by the moral issue of whether or not Salt Spring should take care of its own garbage. Many of those casting ballots in 1989 believed that by showing opposition to the transfer station proposal, they were indicating disapproval of off-island garbage disposal at Hartland Landfill.

The local solid waste committee — which disbanded following the election — urged the community to vote for the CRD transfer station. The landfill at Blackburn Road was destined for closure, and cost estimates for operation of a CRD transfer station amounted to $81 per year for the average homeowner.

The committee had been studying the issue for a lengthy period of time and had examined it from all angles. We should have heeded the group's advice.

Following the defeat of the solid waste referendum, the Island Watch Society, which opposed the CRD plan, noted that the no vote had "opened up a whole new set of problems which will have to be dealt with in the next few months."

Well, two and one-half years have passed, two islanders have battled over sites for privately-run transfer stations, the actual creation of a transfer station is likely months away, establishment of an island-based landfill is even further away (as predicted prior to the 1989 election), and, above all, solid waste is still going to Hartland.

Had the issue not become clouded and had we had clearer foresight, we would have voted for the CRD transfer station, had it built for us, had Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) transporting garbage for close to three of its five-year contract and be almost ready, in two years time, to cancel or limit the BFI contract and use the CRD transfer station for a drop-off to our own landfill.

Instead, a volunteer organization (the Hospital Auxiliary) which operates the Thrift Shop for the direct purpose of aiding equipment purchases at Lady Minto Hospital, is stuck with the task of sorting our garbage.

Island business owners are also footing the bill for increasing garbage disposal costs and the Salt Spring landscape is suffering from garbage dumping.

The direct haul to Hartland option — spelled out in 1989 as the only option to the CRD transfer station — is proving onerous and expensive. In short, islanders and tourists are finding other unacceptable methods of waste disposal.

Like the unfinished seawalk, the garbage issue has gone on too long without finding an adequate solution.

LETTERS SECTION

Rejection inevitable

To the Editor,
I wish to respond to public comments by John Stepaniuk, Norman Twa and Kathy Reimer that Diane Cragg's "no-vote" at the May 26 Trust Committee meeting, resulting in the rejection of Mr. Twa's application, somehow deprives him of due process or public input. As noted in the Driftwood editorial on the decision, rejection of the application was inevitable. To do otherwise would have been inconsistent with Trust policy, contradicted APC recommendations and violated Salt Spring's new transfer station guidelines regarding appropriate uses in areas zoned watershed.

It is the responsibility of our democratically elected trustees to reject rezoning applications which are clearly inconsistent with Trust policy.

To Mr. Twa I would ask, is it the process that is the problem, or simply the fact that the process turned down his proposal? Are there not more appropriate sites he could put forward?

I have a great deal of difficulty with Mr. Stepaniuk's role in the transfer station controversy. He promoted the acceptance of Mr. Twa's application knowing full well that to do so would allow him to continue operating illegally. He proposed the deferral of a decision on Twa's application (effectively providing more time for Twa to continue illegally) until new transfer station guidelines were developed.

However, when the new guidelines clearly precluded a Blackburn site, he refused to endorse them or abide by them. Also, Mr. Stepaniuk has publicly stated that Mr. Twa deserves consideration simply because he has provided longstanding and commendable service to islanders.

I am concerned that Mr. Stepaniuk seems to see his role as a trustee as acting as an advocate for individuals rather than upholding the "preserve and protect" policy of the Trust. I would be interested in hearing Mr. Stepaniuk's views on this.

Finally, I have serious questions about Kathy Reimer's objectivity in the transfer station debate. She has consistently put forward the view that Mr. Twa's proposal will have no environmental risk despite the fact that it is in an area zoned watershed because it supplies drinking water.

On the other hand, she argues that the Rainbow Road site represents some kind of ecological nightmare (in an area already zoned for commercial and light industrial uses) because of its perceived threat to relatively minor fish habitat.

I find it irresponsible for a person with her acknowledged credentials to apply contradictory and exaggerated standards to these proposals.

GARY HOLMAN,
Fulford Harbour

Whatever will be

To the Editor,
Further to David L. Gordon's letter in the June 3 Driftwood.

I have no idea which "unidentified church group" he is criticising.

My unequivocal message to the owner of the Harbour House Hotel was that my family would not patronise her establishment while there were strippers on the premises. I did not and would not specify the gender.

It is the act of public stripping which I find offensive and demeaning, both to performers and spectators.

(In other matters) I found it interesting that two out of five people interviewed choose to ignore the warnings about danger from the sun. Would those two people ignore warnings about polluted beaches, or AIDS, or "Wet Paint"?

... whatever will be, will be!
MARY C. WILLIAMSON,
Ganges

Virtuous?

To the Editor,
To all those nice Christian people (who are not above a little blackmail) I'll paraphrase Shakespeare: "Dost thou think because thou art virtuous there shall be no more strippers and ale?"

The sooner we let go of being religious, and become spiritual, the better our relationships with each other will be.

PETER BLACKMORE,
Salt Spring

For the birds

To the Editor,
Your insertion of "a.m." before "every morning" was "for the birds"! So far as I know there is never a "rising sun" in the "p.m."

I hasten to disclaim this superfluity but, much as I dislike jargon, 05:30 hrs. might have prevented such unforeseen meddling.

Many of your readers have told me what I can do for the birds. They will be pleased to know that a light in the window works on cloudy mornings but it must be lit before dawn and, still, I have to catch up my sleep when the sun starts to set in the "p.m."!

BILL BUCKLER,
Ganges

Postal telepathy

To the Editor,
Recently we have received a number of letters from overseas with extraordinarily minimum information on our address and yet, in spite of no route number, no street address, no box number we have received them.

One was simply addressed to Salt Spring Island, Canada. So we want to thank all post office workers for their good work; we greatly appreciate their extra effort to ensure that our mail "gets through."

SAM and LEE EVANS,
Ganges

"Free gift"

To the Editor,
I understand the "construction" on Rainbow Road is for a new high school.

It is not my opinion that the ravaging of trees and greenery and the excavation and removal of tons and tons of top soil is "construction." Dump trucks have been delivering this "free gift" of top soil to peoples' homes for two weeks now.

How can we consider this rape of vegetation, wildlife and soil as building? Are we looking to "create" another concrete jungle to house our youth?

Isn't there anything in our building codes setting a standard for building without destroying the environment? Isn't there anything in our fibre of being that refuses to condone this devastation of life in order to build?

I have watched a neighbour build a house without great scars of removed vegetation, and gaping wounds of stripped top soil. It didn't take him two years or more to reconstruct and heal a destroyed landscape.

Our present mode of construction seems standard, we have come to see it as normal. People of Salt Spring, do we not question this madness, and refuse such a foundation for dwelling? If we accept this "free" top soil at our homes, are we not condoning such rape as a way of life?

This soil isn't free, we have paid a high price for it! Such "progress" is shaping our home/community, our world/selves into a place unfit to live in. A place we are desperately grasping at strains to find a way of healing.

LEE WEHRWEIN,
Ganges

In response

To the Editor,
This is in response to the letter of T. Mason questioning the recent United Church inter-faith service and Baha'i teaching to "consort with followers of all faiths, in a spirit of friendship and fellowship."

Now let me see if I have it right: the better things get (i.e. the more we come together) the worse off we become and the worse things get (the less we come together) the better (because we will be less deceived).

What a wonderful philosophy! A sort of counterpoint to logical positivism. With thinking like this can the Messiah be far behind!

HUBERT BEYER

VICTORIA — One day, about a year ago, Bruce Hutchison, author, editor emeritus of the Vancouver Sun and Canada's foremost journalist had lunch at Victoria's venerable Union Club, when Ted Hughes walked past him towards another table.

That, Hutchison said to his lunch guest, is the most important man in British Columbia today. How right he was.

Hughes, who had been appointed acting Conflict of Interest Commissioner by the previous government in September 1990 and was confirmed in that position by a unanimous vote of the B.C. Legislature on May 23, 1991, was at the time investigating former premier Bill Vander Zalm's involvement in the sale of his Fantasy Gardens theme park to a Hong Kong billionaire.

It was Vander Zalm himself who had asked Hughes to do the investigation. We'll never know why. Perhaps Vander Zalm truly believed that he had done nothing wrong; perhaps he thought Hughes would do a white-wash job on him.

Whatever the reasons, the outcome had dramatic results. Hughes found that the premier had been in violation of his own guidelines, a verdict that would ultimately force the premier's resignation.

Still acts as a big shadow

Today, Hughes may no longer be the most important man in British Columbia, but he still casts a big shadow. As the province's conflict of interest watchdog, Hughes makes sure that our elected officials conduct themselves properly.

Like the Maytag repairman, Hughes hasn't been inundated with work. His very presence, reinforced by a fairly good Members Conflict of Interest Act, seems to have the desired effect.

Not only does the existence of the conflict of interest commissioner's office discourage deliberate shenanigans by our elected officials, but it encourages them to seek Hughes' advice before they can get into trouble inadvertently.

When the cabinet of the newly-elected Harcourt government discussed amendments to the Compensation Fairness Act, introduced by the previous government, some ministers asked Hughes for input.

A number of cabinet members had spouses who could potentially benefit from any changes to the act. They wanted to know whether that placed them in a conflict of interest. The long and the short of Hughes' ruling was that it didn't.

Personal lobbying prohibited

In his first annual report, released last week, Hughes makes a number of interesting points with regard to MLAs assisting constituents who seek remedy or redress from a commission, board, agency or other tribunal established by the government.

Hughes stressed that the Members Conflict of Interest Act doesn't prohibit any activities in which members engage on behalf of their constituents, but he does draw a line.

Cabinet ministers, he ruled, aren't allowed to personally lobby any commission, board or other government agency on behalf of a constituent, no matter what ministry such bodies operate under.

"A minister acting in such a way would always be seen as a minister of government and that is a position he or she cannot shed at will and it would be improper to appear in an advocacy role of this kind," he said.

On the other hand, Hughes added, there was nothing to keep constituency assistants in a minister's office from giving advocacy help to constituents, provided his boss isn't in charge of the board or commission in question.

Constituency allowance handling

Hughes' latest assignment is to look at how MLAs have been handling their constituency allowances. Every MLA gets about $3,600 a month to operate a constituency office. The money pays for rent, salaries and office supplies and equipment.

Over the years, a number of NDP MLAs have been using the Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society to disburse the constituency allowances on their behalf.

The society, which has long-standing and intimate links with the New Democratic Party, has been accused of funnelling bingo profits into its own coffers rather than giving them to outside charities.

Hughes' job of examining whether the NDP members should or should not have been disbursing their allowances through that society got a bit of a nasty spin when a Socred member decided to question the conflict of interest commissioner's qualifications to do so.

Socred party leader Jack Weisgerber said in the House that Hughes was deputy attorney general when the attorney general's ministry refused to lay charges against the Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society a few years ago.

Hughes, not very amused by the attack, invited Weisgerber to state details of his innuendos outside the Legislature rather than hiding behind the immunity the House gives members.

While it is understandable that the Socreds are still smarting

Senate reform

The following is an open letter to the Honourable Moe Sihota, Minister responsible for Constitutional Affairs.

As a new British Columbian, and a bit of a political junkie, concerned about the proposals for a reformed senate, I am sending the following suggestions along.

I am sending them at this late hour because although I have great respect for your abilities I feel you are not pressing B.C.'s proposal for an equal five region senate strongly enough.

I am also alarmed that the ridiculous proposal for equal representation from each province seems to be up for serious consideration.

There are three principles which should guide any proposal for a reformed senate.

1. We should respect the Fathers of Confederation wishes for equal representation for all regions albeit recognizing that 128 years later there are now five regions.

This third E — equality for all regions — should be adhered to unless there are compelling reasons to the contrary. (see below).

2. No province should be asked to have fewer seats in a reformed senate than it has in the present one.

3. No province with a larger population (Sask., Manitoba) should be asked to accept fewer senators than provinces (N.S., N.B.) with smaller populations.

If these three principles are adhered to we would have two regions, Atlantic Canada and the Prairies with six more senators than the other three regions but this should be acceptable for reasons of history and numerical equality respectively.

A reformed senate would look as follows:

Atlantic Canada — 30 (Newfoundland, 6; Nova Scotia, 10; New Brunswick, 10; Prince Edward Island, 4).

Quebec - 24.

Ontario - 24.

Prairies - 30 (Manitoba, 10; Saskatchewan, 10; Alberta, 10).

West & North - 24 (British Columbia, 18; Yukon, 2; Nunavut, 2).

Since each province and territory have an even number of senators I would propose a fourth principle.

4. Each province should have an equal number of men and women senators and slates of equal numbers of each gender could be voted on by all citizens. If there are imbalances in the present senate none is as great as that between men and women.

VIEWPOINT

First of Two Parts

Why does the Market Vendors Association wish to see the continuation of a non-juried public market?

MARKET VENDORS ASS.
Driftwood Contributor

We wish to see the continuation of a diverse market with a broad public appeal; a family oriented market with something for everyone.

It is not possible to remove one element of the market without negatively affecting the whole.

Craftspeople

Local craft vendors are by far the largest growing component of the market, indicating the steadily growing reputation our market has for interesting and quality items.

Indeed the numbers of craft vendors has grown so much in recent years, that some people see the market becoming "just another craft fair." Others with an opposing attitude see the non-craft vendors as "undermining the quality."

The Market Vendors Association is happy to see an increase in market use by craftspeople especially as it has developed naturally in accordance with customer demand. Artificially directing the market by the use of restrictions is quite another matter.

Once the idea of "restrictions" is accepted, all terms must be defined. What is "handcrafted"? The marketplace would require ongoing scrutiny and conflicts about which products were acceptable would arise. Eventually, a jury system would have to be instituted. Such a system would be at extra cost to craftspeople and necessitate a period of time to allow for adjudication. Inevitably the essential vibrant energy of our market would diminish.

While competition is stiff for craft vendors in the market, few wish to see restrictions placed upon visiting craftpeople. These people add variety to our market and provide an information exchange for local craftspeople.

Salt Spring is indeed Canada's craft island and significant numbers of Salt Spring Island craftspeople regularly attend craft fairs, and markets off-island. They feel discriminating against craftspeople from elsewhere is not only unconscionable but could also damage their welcome at these off-island venues.

Farmers

During the late 1980s local produce all but disappeared from the "farmers" market. The small scale farmer/gardeners we expected to find at the market was the group most seriously affected by the unregulated staking out of space that occurred during those years.

When the permit system was implemented after the 1990 season, the vendors voted unanimously to reserve the centre aisle of the market for farmers and non-profit groups. The 1991 season saw a definite increase in local produce as people realized they could pick in the morning and arrive at the market to catch the crowds.

Most of the produce available has been high quality organic as the market particularly attracted members of the Natural Growers Association. The Market Vendors Association expects further increases in farmer use of the market and encourages it by attention to their needs.

Farm produce supply can only increase with a corresponding increase in demand. Lack of customers deters more fully than lack of space! Most farmer/vendors agree that a diverse public market with authentic local appeal is necessary. Tourists like to see field worn locals with luscious local produce but they generally don't pack away many vegetables.

Used goods

Perhaps the most surprising aspect of attempts to "regulate" the market is the desire to eliminate used goods from the market. Surely, in 1991, recycling and reusing are socially worthwhile goals universally.

Not so long ago it was commonplace for islanders to attend the market with a handful of possessions they no longer needed or simply wanted to turn into cash. Some individuals even developed small scale businesses by refurbishing such items as tools or small appliances.

Mothers sold their children's out-grown clothes and used the money to purchase the next size up from the parent down the market aisle.

Whether as a result of parking restrictions, booth size policies, or incessant nose wrinkling criticism, these islanders and their merchandise have almost disappeared from today's market.

The Market Vendors Association regrets this and will, in the future, be looking for policies designed to enable Salt Spring Islanders to once again conduct a used goods exchange.

Next week—Liquidation goods, food and miscellaneous items are addressed.

Thrift Shop used as garbage dump

Bags of unusable goods left

People are leaving worthless clothes at the Lady Minto Hospital Auxiliary Thrift Shop in Mouat's Mall.

One day, 13 bags of unusable clothes were left at the store, auxiliary volunteer Daisy Gear said Friday.

"It's getting worse now, ever since the garbage dump closed."

Previously, on an average day the Thrift Shop would throw out two bags of clothes, now they are throwing out an average of six or seven bags per day, she said.

"It's just a case of take it down to the Thrift Shop. They will get rid of it and we won't have to take it to the garbage," Gear said. "That is what it is."

"People won't pay for it."

Thrift Shop volunteers take longer to sort through clothes because of all the "junk" they have to go through including torn clothes, shoes, and broken toys.

"We can't keep up with it. It is disheartening, really disheartening."

People drop bags off before the shop opens at 10 a.m. so no one can see them leave the clothes, she said.

"They are smart. Just come by, drop their bag off and they are gone."

Gear believes the problem has "definitely" arisen because of the closure of the Blackburn dump.

"After a garage sale it is bedlam" in the shop, she said. "Everything they don't sell they dump it on us."

Currently, Mouat's Trading Company pays for the removal of Thrift Shop garbage. She said Mouat's pays $3 for each garbage bag taken away, which may in turn lead to a raise in rent for the Thrift Shop.

Less money raised by the Thrift Shop will be available to be used for hospital equipment expenditures, she stated.

bit of garbage cost us twice as much as it did last year."

The PRC sent letters to people three times in the last year warning them not to dump their garbage on PRC property again or they will face charges.

Centennial Park suffers most from garbage disposal and bags of garbage are occasionally dumped at Arnell Park, he said.

"We've always had a problem up there."

Vesuvius Pub assistant manager Lee-Anne Gordon said the pub put locks on its dumpster and people leaving garbage there "is not really a problem anymore."

However, people still leave garbage outside of the dumpster "for the crows to chew up."

Fulford Marina manager Flo Beaumont said a padlock put on their dumpster about a year and one-half ago has cut the number of people dumping garbage there "considerably."

Ganges RCMP constable Rod Holland said fines for littering range from $50 to $500 but police have not received any complaints. If the person who left garbage can be identified "then give us a call."

"For us to issue a ticket we need the person complaining to be willing to go to court over the matter."

Trust ends year with extra $$$

Islands Trust financial books ended fiscal 1991-92 with a $77,392 surplus.

While costs incurred by Trust Council and its executive committee were $28,576 more than anticipated, Trust committees on each island and general operations cost $59,906 less than budgeted.

Trust Fund Board administration also produced a $46,062 surplus, with $15,151 of that remaining from 1990-91.

Trust operations manager Doug Levell told a June 6 Trust Council meeting that "through a fair degree of work and realignment of the budget the financial report has provided us with a surplus."

A potential deficit was predicted earlier in the 1991-92 budget year.

Total expenditure for the year was $1,826,014.

Finance committee chairman Phil Clark also noted the Trust had received a clean audit from accounting firm Peat Marwick Thorne.

That designation gives "a message that management has represented the affairs of the Trust relative to the budget."

Hornby Island trustee Cathy Howard requested a copy of the auditor's "management letter" which outlines suggestions for improvement. Clark explained it was not "normal practice" for directors of a board nor politicians to view that document because it was intended for management only.

Trustees voted down a motion made by Howard which would allow them to see the letter if they wished.

Land control sought

Islands Trust Council will pursue local control of island Crown lands after hearing presentations made by Hornby Island residents at last weekend's council meeting.

Council gave itself the task of looking at mechanisms which could give community residents more decision-making power over the fate of provincial Crown lands in their area.

Hornby Island Forest Management Society chairman Norm Walton explained Crown-owned Mt. Jeffrey, not logged for about 60 years, formed the centre of his small island.

"For many years the residents of Hornby Island have been concerned that logging of the Crown land would be authorized and that a wood lot licence would not necessarily be awarded to a careful and environmentally-aware logger."

The primary concern as explained further by former Hornby trustee John Fletcher is that logging could endanger fragile community water sources for the island's 1,200 residents.

Walton said locally-administered sustainable silviculture practices could aid the local economy while conserving the ecologically healthy state of Mt. Jeffrey.

The driving force behind the community's request for stewardship of its Crown land "lies in the belief that this forest must be treated as an environmental and

Clark and other trustees said it made more sense for policy-making functions of trustees and administrative functions of Trust staff to remain separate.

Trust Council also gave final reading to its $2,349,030 1992-93 budget which received approval from the municipal affairs ministry.

Levell noted a budget amendment would have to be made by bylaw at the next council meeting because the actual provincial government grant to the Trust was approximately $6,000 less than originally set.

A "make sense" budget wanted

School district 64 officials have joined others province-wide calling for a funding system that "makes sense."

Gulf Islands Teachers Association president Jack Braak, schools superintendent Mike Marshall and school board chairman Charles Bazzard outlined problems faced by this and other school districts at a "day of concern" about education funding held May 27.

Braak explained a major problem was the NDP government's holding back of between $85 and $120 million in funding until September for dispersal when actual student enrolment figures are determined.

When school boards do not know how much money they will have for a school year until it starts, realistic planning is impossible, said Braak. They ask "how do we budget when we don't have all of the money and don't know how much money we are going to get?"

Funds have always been held back — about $44 million last year — but the new government's larger figure has compounded the problem.

Braak said some changes needed for an overhaul of the education funding system include returning property taxation authority to school boards and ending public funding of private education.

He noted boards do have the option of holding a referendum asking taxpayers for more education funding, but the time frame between making the decision and holding a referendum makes it an unworkable prospect. The system dictates school boards must request approval to increase property taxes for school funding before people see the rest of their tax bill for that year.

Board chairman Charles Bazzard said the district was in an "untenable position." Eighty-four per cent of its costs are for salaries and benefits, which "we are not being fully funded for." The 1992-93 funding level is $7,019 per pupil, he noted — the same as it was two years ago.

Accounting for increased costs, that translates to a 15 per cent or $2 million net decrease in funds to provide service, he said.

Some areas he cited as lacking adequate funding are preparation time for teachers, Year 2000 program implementation, professional development dealing with technological and societal change, legal expenses, lunchtime supervision and transportation.

Marshall reiterated Bazzard's and Braak's position.

"We desperately need re-establishment of a funding system that is going to make some sense," he said.

He also confirmed the district would operate with fewer staff next year.

"We are looking, at this point in time, at a reduction of about eight teacher positions." He stressed that did not necessarily mean eight people would be laid off.

Marshall said what really concerns him is that the provincial government is not making changes needed to distinguish itself from its Socred predecessor. A "legacy of non-integrity" is not disappearing under the NDP banner.

"The problems in funding and integrity do not belong to this government," he said, but later added "I'm getting really worried they are going to let it slip."

By acknowledging funding inadequacies and being honest about the figures it uses, the government could help restore some of the lost integrity.

"Please be really as suspicious as I am of all the figures you read," he advised.

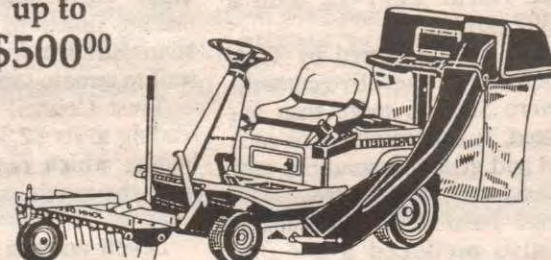

Braak presented a table indicating British Columbia provided less money per pupil for education than all provinces except Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island for the 1991-92 school year. He also urged those attending the meeting to express education funding concerns by phone, fax or letter to Saanich North-Gulf Islands MLA Clive Tanner and education minister Anita Hagen.

- Current local government and decision-making
- The Islands Trust •The Capital Regional District
- Local services •Transportation •Economic Development
- Environment •Farm land

Some of you find the current system fragmented, frustrating unresponsive, and lacking in local accountability. BUT, you are very concerned that any changes could mean excessive costs and bureaucracy, and weaken the mandate of the Islands Trust.

•Most of you support its "preserve and protect" mandate, but have a variety of concerns about the effectiveness of the Trust, especially with only two local trustees. •Generally, you find the level of CRD and other local services adequate, even commendable. You see a need for new services, but consistent with our rural lifestyles. BUT, some of you find the CRD remote, and doubt that a single CRD Director is adequate. Many of you are concerned about the future of farm land.

SO, WHAT HAPPENS NOW?

The options are now being presented in draft form. A diagram of the current system will be provided

After the meetings, the options will be published and distributed to every household on the island.

The Study will bring you together in the fall to learn what action you wish to take on the options.

Drunk driver slapped with fine

Accused had been warned not to drive

An intoxicated island man warned against driving pleaded guilty to impaired driving in Ganges provincial court June 2.

Crown counsel Anne Wallace told the court that Cedar Lane resident Anthony Winston, 29, was observed walking into the Golden Island Restaurant intoxicated March 21 at 9:40 p.m. Before he left the restaurant, a local RCMP officer told him he should not be driving, Wallace said.

Ten minutes later he was seen driving. Police pursued Winston, who accelerated and was weaving from the centre line to the right of the road.

Police activated emergency equipment and Winston travelled "several hundred feet" before stopping, Wallace said.

Breathalyzer samples provided by Winston amounted to readings of 190 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood. The legal limit is 80 milligrams.

Defense lawyer Mayland McKimm said Winston, by his own admission, is an alcoholic and needs professional counselling.

Judge Mackenzie imposed a $700 fine and suspended Winston's driver's licence for 16 months.

Winston had one previous drinking and driving conviction.

COURT Docket

• A Salt Spring man pleaded guilty to impaired driving in Ganges court June 2, although the Ganges RCMP detachment's breathalyzer machine was not working and could not obtain readings at the time he was charged.

Colin Ward, 21, was escorted out of a local pub at approximately 11:45 p.m. October 4, 1991.

Police observed his pick-up truck leaving the pub. The truck was wandering in its lane, made numerous jerky movements, and the tires went off the road to the right, said Crown counsel Anne Wallace.

Police pulled Ward over, and he fumbled while looking for his insurance and needed to steady himself when he was standing, she said.

Ward, of Lautman Drive, did not have any previous impaired driving convictions but he did have a driving record for other offences.

He was fined $450 and had his licence suspended for 12 months.

Salt Spring resident Spencer Dean LaFortune, of Trincomali Heights, pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving in Ganges provincial court June 2.

Crown counsel Anne Wallace said LaFortune's van was one of two vehicles which sped out of the parking lot of a local pub onto Upper Ganges Road March 14 at 1:16 a.m.

The van was pulled over by police and when officers approached LaFortune they could smell liquor. LaFortune's speech was blurred and his eyes were bloodshot, said Wallace.

Police had LaFortune provide breath samples which showed he had 200 milligrams and 180 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood, which is over the 80 milligram limit.

Judge Mackenzie fined LaFortune $400 and prohibited him from driving for the next 12 months. The charge was LaFortune's first impaired driving offense.

Unions negotiate

One hospital employee contract is nearly settled and another is now being negotiated.

Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital Employees Union (HEU) spokesman Melanie Iverson said 81 per cent of Lady Minto HEU employees voted in favour of accepting the Hospital Labour Relations Association (HLRA) contract offer.

Province-wide, the vote was in the low 80 per cent range to accept the contract, she said.

The HEU has now ratified the pact and HEU employees are "waiting for the HLRA to ratify it and my understanding is they will do that before June 15."

The Health Sciences Association (HSA), a union that includes physiotherapists, occupational therapists, psychologists, lab technicians, and health records administrators, is currently negotiating its contract with the HLRA.

Union communications director Colleen Fuller said the union hopes negotiations will go smoothly now that there have been two settlements in the health care sector.

"I don't think there is anything radical we are asking for. Our proposals are not out of line with the two previous settlements."

The union's previous contract expired March 31, 1992, said Lady Minto Hospital health records administrator Kathy Laitinen.

"About 11 or 12" HSA members work at Lady Minto.

Fuller said the union has 7,700 members in British Columbia.

Topsoil moved

Topsoil being moved from the new high school site to island homes has resulted in an increase in truck traffic on Salt Spring. Fitzpatrick Contracting project manager Glen Danchuk said 6,000 cubic metres of topsoil have been distributed in the past two weeks.

People have been "coming out of the woodwork" asking for the topsoil, and project trucks have been used to transport it.

"I give the soil away and charge a token fee for my trucks depending on distance," said Danchuk Tuesday.

"Some I lose a little bit, some I make a little bit. It balances out."

He said the average load charge is $40.

Others have brought their pickup trucks and pails to take away the soil, he said.

However, the topsoil is now all gone. Danchuk said most people were happy with the arrangement for distributing the topsoil but "some people that didn't get anything weren't happy."

People are still asking for it, he said.

ULTIMATE STRETCHER: Donations from the poppy campaign purchased a new stretcher for the Lady Minto Hospital. The stretcher is the newest in stretcher technology, says Legion president Betty Galt (centre). Ted O'Sullivan, nurse Marg Pickard, and Scotty Dixon, on the stretcher, are also impressed by the new stretcher.

Fulford couple found

A couple of Fulford residents who attended the Victoria Oak Bay Tea Party in their boat, were reported missing June 7.

A search was organized and the Rescue Coordination Centre in Victoria aided in an aerial and water search. The Fulfordites' boat was found drifting without occupants off a Victoria beach.

On June 7 at 2:30 p.m. the search was called off. The two were found being towed into Friday Harbour in a dinghy.

Youth programs set

Salt Spring Youth Centre summer programming begins this week, following a great June 5 re-opening dance.

Starting this Thursday night, co-ed volleyball for youth takes place at the centre from 7 to 10 p.m.

Shelby Pool at Portlock Park will be the exclusive domain of teens on Friday nights from 9 to 11 p.m. throughout the summer. Parks and Recreation Commission has donated use of the pool with the centre responsible for lifeguard costs. Admission is $2.

Adult volunteers are needed to supervise pool nights, beginning this Friday. Swimming or lifeguarding experience is not necessary, but would be considered a bonus.

Interested people should call centre coordinator Kathy Towne at 537-9938 for more information about volunteering at the pool.

On Saturday night, June 13, the centre's youth council is sponsoring a pre-teen dance from 7 to 10 p.m., opening the centre for grade 5 to 7 students. Admission is $3.

Towne said last Friday's well-supervised dance, organized entirely by the youth council, was a great success. Sound system provided by teacher Dwayne Prosk and lighting effects by Steve Stefancsik were appreciated, she said.

Big sisters, brothers needed

Rotary Club president Tony McEwen sees a need for Big Brothers and Big Sisters on Salt Spring, so his club is prepared to offer $5,000 seed money to establish the program on the island.

Rotarians are willing to help start the program "then it is up to the community to carry through with it."

"We see it as a community need and something the community as a whole should support," Big Brothers and Big Sisters tries to help youths who are missing a parent and the island has many single-parent families, he said.

Salt Spring has "a lot of kids who need guidance and help and that is what we see as important," said McEwen.

School District 64 superintendent Mike Marshall said Monday "around half of our students have only one parent at home" which he believes is a little higher than the provincial average.

Marshall agreed there is a need for the organization on Salt Spring.

"Everywhere the program is offered it does nothing but good."

Big Brothers and Big Sisters are adults that provide one-on-one friendship to a child — they do not need to be counsellors and disciplinarians.

They meet once a week with a youth from a single-parent family for a few hours as friends; they go for walks, see a movie, go to a ball game, bake cookies or just sit and talk.

Big brothers and sisters are matched to the youth or child to pair those with similar interests.

Salt Spring Big Brothers and Big Sisters would be a satellite chapter of the Victoria organization and would have an island case worker, said McEwen.

A provisional budget for the program came in at around $20,000, he said.

"There will have to be fundraising in the community."

An executive-director of Big Brothers and Big Sisters will be at the Salt Spring Community Society on June 16 at 7 p.m. to talk to anyone interested in the program.

Help Wanted:

Windsor Plywood, Salt Spring Island, affiliated with over 60 other Windsor Plywood Stores in Canada and the U.S., is now hiring yard personnel.

The main responsibility is customer service: "We pride ourselves on service" and we expect no less from our employees. In addition to helping people load material in our yard, successful applicants will be trained on our delivery trucks for the furtherance of a variety of building products including drywall. Because of this, applicants must be motivated, strong, responsible and have a valid drivers licence. Previous experience in sales, particularly hardware and building supplies, truck driving, forklift operation, shipping and receiving would definitely be an asset. Punctuality and reliability is a must.

Remuneration will commensurate with experience. We are looking for one full time person immediately and one full time person to start in August. Also, one high school student to start full time after his schooling is finished this June. We would expect this student to be willing to continue through the winter, working after school and Saturdays. This student would ideally be going into Grade X or XI, so he/she would either have his/her drivers licence or be getting it soon.

Apply in person with resume and handwritten cover page before this weekend. Ask for Ken.

Inter-faith education discussed

Salt Spring residents Rev. Barry Cooke, Terre Flower, Linda Popov and Manson Toynbee joined more than 250 people gathered at Lester B. Pearson College of the Pacific for a conference on "Inter-Faith Education in Schools: Enhancing Multi-Culturalism," sponsored by the World Inter-Faith Education Association (Canada).

Other participants included people from across Canada, England, Italy, Japan and the USA, administrators, teachers, students, and members of many faith communities, consulting in Canada's two official languages.

The group struggled with the rationale and methods for offering inter-faith education in the schools, based on respect and appreciation for the varied faith traditions in Canada.

It was agreed that courses should be presented to deepen students' understanding of human culture and to support their own search for meaning, rather than for the purpose of conversion.

Flower, who co-ordinated the conference, felt that "the people we met, the ideas we shared and the contacts found for the future made the meeting invaluable."

Toynbee, a board member of the World Inter-Faith Education Association (Canada), said "What impressed me was the spirit in which the discussions were carried on, free of animosity. No one was trying to score points for his or her own view."

Popov was asked to make a special presentation on the Virtues Guide, an inter-faith handbook on values and virtues, authored on Salt Spring. It was enthusiastically received both by educators and members of the faith communities.

Popov said the highlight of the conference for her was that "as a Baha'i, I was deeply touched by an uproarious and intimate connection that I made with the head of a Muslim mosque, given the history of persecution of Baha'is by Muslims."

Cooke, who coordinated the media display, said he was "struck" by the "realization that the teaching of religions does not mean that members of particular faith traditions lose their religious identity or their faithfulness. Inter-faith education can affirm the student's own religious heritage while enriching (his or her) understanding of the faiths of others."

The video made of Salt Spring's inter-faith service for Earth Day, which was broadcast recently across Canada by Vision T.V., inspired conference participants to develop similar events in their own communities.

Best year at ISCU

Island Savings Credit Union recorded its "best year ever" in 1991, said chief executive officer Ray Bush last month.

At its annual general meeting held in Duncan May 14, Bush said the institution's total assets exceeded $250 million at the end of 1991, and that pre-tax, pre-distribution earnings surpassed $3.1 million, an increase of 66 per cent over the previous year.

More than $750,000 in "patronage rebates" were distributed to members, along with a 7.5 per cent dividend on existing equity bonus shares.

Patronage rebates grant special shares to members based on the amount of business they conduct with their credit union during the year.

Free dental visit offered

Children under the age of three will be eligible for a free introductory dental visit in a new program being implemented in dental offices throughout British Columbia.

The First Dental Visit program, launched recently, was developed by the College of Dental Surgeons of B.C. in conjunction with the B.C. Ministry of Health, to promote preventive dental health practices in young children.

Both dental offices — Dr. William Lea's and the combined office of Drs. Lorraine Machell, Susan Leung and Gordon Pollock — will be offering the program on Salt Spring.

The First Dental Visit program is targeted to children between two- and one-half and three-years of age when most, or all, of their first teeth will have erupted. In scheduled dental appointments, children will receive an orientation to the dental office and a visual check of their teeth. Services will also include an oral hygiene consultation with parents.

"We would like to make that first dental visit an enjoyable one to help instill positive attitudes towards preventive dental care," said Dr. John Diggins, President of the College of Dental Surgeons. "The preventive approach, as advocated by the dental profession, has had a significant impact on the improved health of our population. It is also the most effective and least expensive method of caring for your child's teeth."

Certificates, available at all participating dental offices and community health units, will be used to monitor the program. The projected annual cost of free services provided in a fully utilized

Fraser wins big

"Red, white and blue" proved lucky for Salt Spring's Flo Fraser during a recent trip to Reno.

That was the name of a slot machine game giving Fraser a rare $10,000 jackpot win last week. She had already earned an estimated $1,100 over expenses when she decided to play a final 20 minutes of "red, white and blue" while husband Pat went to find a map. They had already checked out of their hotel room.

She said she had invested only about $45 that morning leading up to the $10,000 win.

"No money came out but the light was on."

Fraser then looked around for a written explanation and discovered "you won $10,000 if you had the red, white and blue in that order. So it was pretty exciting."

A "tax tip" from a person she met made the win even better.

She would have automatically lost 30 per cent of the prize to taxes, but was told to apply for a United States social security number enabling her to fill out a 1992 American tax return as "a part-time gambler."

That would result in her regaining the $3,000 currently held back. She applied for the number and was told she would receive it in about 10 days.

Locals at Moby's

Local musicians the Barley Brothers will perform this Saturday afternoon at Moby's Marine Pub.

A press release on the event says the band's all-acoustic table-to-table style makes for a casual join-in atmosphere.

Band members include Brian MacDonald and Tom Bowler on acoustic guitar, Graeme Maltby on five-string banjo and David Roland on acoustic bass.

The Barley Brothers band has just returned from the Seattle Folk Life Festival where its unusual approach to bluegrass, folk and country music was well received, the release stated.

Dance is on

Fernwood school's new stage will host dancers between the ages of three and 13, as Sue Bowler's class members perform their routines.

The recital will take place this Friday (June 12) at 6:30 p.m.

A classified advertisement placed in last week's Driftwood indicated the performance was cancelled. However, location was the only aspect of the concert to change.

The performance will include "a lot of colorful costumes and

Gulf Island Fabriccreations is fashion hit at arts show

Margret Wesemann of Mayne Island made fashion news at the recent B.C. Creative Arts Show in Vancouver.

Assisted by the Ministry of Economic Development, Small Business and Trade, Wesemann premiered her "Gulf Island Fabriccreations" at the wholesale trade show. As many as 7,000 commercial buyers attended the show, looking for product lines to supply retail outlets throughout North America.

Through its home-based business program, the ministry helps 125 home-based artisans and gift producers to participate at the bi-annual trade show. It provides small scale arts and crafts producers with an opportunity to introduce their product to the international marketplace.

The next B.C. Creative Arts Show will be held August 23 - 25 at B.C. Place in Vancouver.

"Home-based businesses represent a wealth of talent and ingenuity, and make a substantial contribution to the provincial economy," said Small Business Minister David Zernhelt in a prepared statement. "The B.C. Creative Arts Show helps these small business people tap markets that may otherwise be beyond their reach."

For Wesemann, the show generated $1,300, considerably more than she expected.

"I thought the show was really exciting and well organized," she said. "It brought me into contact with other craftspeople and I felt I had support. It convinced me to continue in this direction."

Wesemann's design career took shape when she was unemployed.

"I'd been sewing and creating all my life. It was a hobby that grew into something more out of necessity."

"I first began by reading books and experimenting. I had never even touched a dye before and the first things I made looked awful," she said.

Wesemann now buys pre-dyed fabrics and concentrates on the silkscreening in her home studio. Her bags, jackets, and T-shirts are produced in cottons and silks, in keeping with the natural images they bear.

The shot at big league marketing was only part of the help Wesemann received through the creative arts show. Small business experts were on hand to provide seminars and workshops on tried and proven business management techniques.

"The show staff were wonderful. They helped me with my display. They were always there to suggest things. The courses and seminars were really helpful and I would like to take more," said

Wesemann.

For more information on the home-based business program, individuals should contact the Chamber of Commerce, government agent's office or call toll free: 1-800-663-3444.

LETHAL WEAPON 3. Only one movie this week. Mel Gibson returns in the third installment of the Lethal Weapon series. This movie is like a pile of odds and ends - some suitably entertaining - that never made it into the first two films. Danny Glover walks a witty line between slyness and exasperation, and Mel Gibson seems to be carrying on his own commentary on the action; he's like a talking doodle in the margin said Entertainment Weekly.

Rated 14 years, frequent violence and very coarse language.

June 14 .....Great Driftwood driftwood contest

Build a boat contest beats up

Once again Sea Capers will be the scene of frenzied activity as up to 12 two-person teams compete to build seaworthy rowing and sailing vessels from common construction materials.

Windsor Plywood will donate $40 worth of material to each team, to which competitors add $20. With this $60 of materials and hand tools only, three hours is all the time allowed to complete construction. Building is followed by a sailing and rowing race in Ganges Harbour.

Previous year's entries have included a masonite catamaran, a tar paper folded boat, tin roofing canoes, plywood three-man punts, corrugated plastic kayaks and a shipwright-built fir dory.

Building starts on Sea Capers Saturday, June 13, at 10 a.m. in Centennial Park. "Boats" must be complete by 1 p.m. and the race begins at 1:30 p.m. off the park boardwalk.

This year's course has been expanded and crafts will now have to round the breakwater and Grace Point to finish (we hope) at the Coast Guard Dock.

The winner receives a gift certificate from Moby's Pub for dinner for two, and all competitors may recycle their creations.

Entry forms and rules are available at Windsor Plywood or from Illtyd Perkins, 653-9392, 1520 Fulford Ganges Road.

Innumerable Sea Capers events take place Saturday in Ganges and in Fulford on Sunday.

Informative programs detailing all events and times are available at many island stores, restaurants, pubs, gas stations, banks, the RCMP station, tourist information centre and the Driftwood office.

Jaunty Sea Capers caps are available at the Salty Shop, Carolee's Fashion and on-site this weekend.

GOLF Tees

A honey pot competition was the event of the day for the ladies of the 18-hole division.

Eileen Botham shot an 89 to take first place with 47 points. Runners-up were Kathy Darling (46), Phyllis Henderson (43), Margie Mills (41) and Jean Cunningham (40). The putt pot went to Margaret Rithaler with 26.

In the nine-hole division, 40 ladies teed off on June 3. Congratulations to Bev Lillyman who broke 50 and won low gross. The low net winner was Kay Javorski, while the putt pot went to Gerry Layard.

The honey pot for June 4 was contested by over 50 players. Low gross winner with a 77 was Gundy McLeod while runner-up was Mike Hardy with a 78. Gordon Thorne and Michael Wheaton were also winners in this division.

The low net winner was Fred Broadbent with Jack Fraser and Boyd Siemens as runners-up. Other low net winners were Jack Godwin, Jack Dosco and Art Botham.

PLAY Ball

Creekhouse Realty's prep team of 13-year-olds split a double-header with Ladysmith Saturday.

They lost the first game 6-5, playing an admirable catch-up game after Ladysmith notched five runs in the first inning. Creekhouse Creekhouse maintained its momentum to win the second game 11-6, after Ladysmith again scored big — four runs — in the first inning.

Manager Roy Kinnear and coach Brian Little credited the

Uphill race entered

Salt Spring Track Club member John Edwards placed 24th in a "gruelling" up-hill race that involved some 200 competitors.

The island runner participated Sunday in the renowned Mt. Seymour Run which begins "virtually" at sea level and rises 907 metres over a 13-kilometre course, ending at the Mt. Seymour ski lift.

Edwards ran the race in 68 minutes — just seven minutes behind the first place finisher. The race was open to all ages.

Edwards described the race as "gruelling," and noted that he does not usually run races of this length.

"Hill running is special," he said. "You get into a Zen-like state."

When Canadians work together we can take on the world and win.

To succeed in today's world, Canadians must be able to compete because our jobs directly depend on it. Preparing ourselves through training will help us to compete and secure the prosperity we want for ourselves and our children.

We have to invest in ourselves and be a country that says ... yes we can.

COREL SYSTEMS CORP., OTTAWA

This Ontario company has captured 50% of the world market with CorelDraw, a software graphics program for IBM and compatibles. It exports 90% of its products to Europe and the U.S. and attributes Free Trade to the fact that it can operate so successfully from Canada, using Canadian talent and initiative.

Yes we can. We've got the proof.

Canadians are succeeding every day. Many individual and business successes exist... with real benefits for individuals, the communities they live in and for Canadian industry.

Hundreds of Canadian companies are achieving remarkable international success. They're creating jobs, developing new skills and opportunities for thousands of Canadians and creating markets around the world for Canadian products.

COMMUNITY TALKS

The Prosperity Initiative's Steering Group is developing a consensus-based plan of action to be presented to Canadians in September. Canadians told us that they wanted to participate in developing this plan of action. We listened...

Through a series of "Community Talks", thousands of people in 186 communities across Canada have contributed their ideas. They talked about how to address the challenges and opportunities facing us all in the areas of competitiveness and learning. They talked about how to maintain our standard of living and secure our economic future. They concluded that all of us have to play a part... and the government is listening.

Yes we can. We've got the ability to build on our successes.

We have a history of working in co-operation with others for world-class achievements in peacekeeping, medicine and space exploration. Now, with business, labour, governments, academic and social groups working together, we can achieve prosperity through international competitiveness. But there is one more critical factor: Canada's ultimate potential depends on the commitment of individual Canadians to being the best.

FREWILL SAUNDERS, BRITISH COLUMBIA

"I had to make a decision to change careers. I chose to go into computer programming and part of my course was on-the-job training at BC Tel where I now work as a programmer analyst. Training really opened up a promising future for me in a fascinating industry!"

Yes we can. We've got the people.

It's time to focus our energies on our most important economic challenge yet... and prepare ourselves for a more prosperous future.

Yes, we can!

BIRTHS

ANDISON - HENSHALL: Robin and Dave are very happy to announce the birth of their third child, David Evan on May 25th: a healthy, happy brother for big sister Alex and a precious reminder of all the joys, hope and goodness life can offer us. 24

CARDS OF THANKS

MANY PEOPLE contributed to the happiness at the celebration of our marriage in true Salt Spring Island tradition. We would like to thank Henry & Betty Caldwell, Lorraine & Dolly Douglas, Herb & Pat Burgett, Olive Layard, Dr. Barry Cooke, our flower girls, Off Centre Stage, the Roman Catholic Church & countless others who gave so generously of their time, to make the occasion memorable. Libby & Michel Jutras.

A VERY BIG Big thank you to all my family & friends. Your kindness I can never repay. I've read your beautiful cards many times over. All your support, gifts, flowers have me on the road to recovery. My family and I think you people are very special. Love Lil Irwin. 24

THANKS A million Steve Mitchell and all who sponsored him in the London Marathon. Total raised $675, which will be donated to the Palliative Care Programme S.S.I. Any other donations to the Adennchase Fdn. will be gratefully accepted. Call 537-1992. 24

WE WOULD like to thank the following people who helped make this years camp a great place to be: Helga, Lind, and Pat - the food was wonderful! Doug, our camp photographer, errand man, and all round big help. The man at the beach who educated us not to feed the ducks and swans bread, and Mr. Cudmore, who shared his grain with us. Dave, your planters great! Also a big thank you to Chris Schmah for donating all those wonderful things we needed to plant our "Cedar Seeders" and earn our "Gardener" Badge. Tarrie we loved having you with us. We look forward to next year 1st Fernwood Brownies. 24

REFORM PARTY OF CANADA

Jack Frazer wishes to thank all those who worked and voted for him in the recent Reform Party Constituency Election and hopes for the support of all party members in the next Federal Election. 24

What shall we do with the drunken sailor?

Drinking and boating don't go together any more than drinking and driving. Every year 500,000 boaters in Canada are involved in accidents and alcohol. You can't take a cab home from your boat.
So leave the alcohol behind.
